NEW FORMULA TO END STRIKE

HARDING PROPOSES SENIORITY DISPUTE GO TO RAIL BOARD

Following Conference With Carrier Union Leaders During Forenoon Chief Executive Calls On Striking Railway Men to Return to Work and Submit Question of Seniority to Labor Tribunal for Adjudication With Understanding Both Men and Railroads Abide By That Body's Decision—Reminds Factions of Their Promise.

GOVERNMENT'S LAST OFFER

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—President Harding today called upon striking railroad shopmen to return to work, requested the railroads to assign them to work and asked both the workmen and carriers to submit the disputed question of seniority to the railroad labor board.

The president sent telegrams to B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad shopmen's union and T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the association of railroad executives, outlining the plan which he hoped would result in speedy termination of the strike.

Mr. Harding, in his message asked that both parties to the dispute agree to comply with the decision rendered on seniority by the railroad labor board.

The further statement was made by the president that he was "mindful of the pledge of both the executives and the striking workmen to recognize the validity of all decisions by the railroad labor board." He also pointed out that the question of seniority which the executives rejected as outlined recently in a settlement plan proposed by him, remains in dispute and bars a settlement.

Government's Final Proposal.

The statement was authoritotively made at the white house in connection with the call issued by the president that Mr. Harding regarded his proposals as a final proposal from the government for voluntary action by the railroads and employes to end the menace to the country's interests which the administration sees in the paralysis of transportation, particularly in coal fields. The proposals today were made without consultation with railroad executives and the president does not know what will be the attitude of the labor unions, it was added.

Settlement through the railroad labor board, the president was said to believe, is the only practical course for the government to seek. The president, it was added, considers the suggestions just made as representing the judgement of one who has been standing in between the parties to the controversies.

The president's telegrams were made public at the white house at 1 o'clock after the executive had held another conference with Mr. Jewell and other strike leaders and with Chairman Cummins of the senate interstate commerce committee who has been in contact with the railroad executives.

The president, it was stated, trusts the new proposal will draw the support of public opinion and will bring about a speedy ending of the strike now in its sixth week.

Message Sent to Jewell.

(International News Seervice.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—President Harding today called upon striking railroad workers to return to work immediately pending a decision by by the railroad labor board on the controversial question of seniority rights.

The president addreessed telegrams to Bert M. Jewell, chairman of the railway employes, and to T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, notifying them of his action in these words:

"Mindful of the pledge of both the executives and the striking workmen to recognize the validity of all decisions by the railroad labor board, I am hereby calling on the striking workmen to return to work, calling upon the carriers to return them to work, calling upon both workers and carriers under law to take the question in dispute to the railroad labor board for hearing and decision and a compliance by both with the decision rendered."

The text of President Harding's telegram to Jewell follows:

"I have your communication in which you and your assistants, speaking for the striking railway shopmen, pledged your agreement to the proposals which I submitted to the railway executives and your organization for the settlement of the pending railroad strike. Inasmuch as I was acting as a volunteer mediator, seeking the earliest possible settlement. I confess to you the same disappointment which I have conveyed to the executives that the teerms were not unanimously accepted. As you are already aware, the executives of the carriers declare their inability to restore seniority rights unimpaired.

Acceptance is Gratifying.

"It is exceedingly gratifying, howeveer were responding to the terms which were proposeed that both the spokesmen for the carriers and the spokesmen for the employes have pledged that they will recognize the validity of all decisions by the railroad labor board and to faithfully carry out such decisions as contemplated by the law. Moreover, spokesmen for carriers and employes have approved the second paragraph of the proposal and in their approval have agreed that 'railroad labor board decisions which have been involved in the strike may be taken in the exercise of recognized rights, by enther party, to the railroad labor board for rehearing. Inasmuch as the employes have agreed to all the terms proposed and the executives have agreed to two of the bases of the settlement and rejected the third, there remains only the queestion of sniority covered in paragraph three in disputes, to bar a settlement.

"Mindful of the pledge of both the executives and tho striking workmen to reecogniz the validity of all decisions by the railroad labor board, I am hereby calling on the striking workmen to return to work, calling upon the carriers to assign them to work, calling upon both workmen and carriers, under the law, to take the question in dispute to the railroad labor board for hearing, and decision and compliance by both with the decision rendered."

"WARREN G. HARDING."

Grable To Make Protest.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—E. F. Grable, head of the Maintenance of Way men, departed today for Washington to attend a conference of leaders of union men not on strike, called for the purpose of discussing the general situation of the shop crafts strike and petitioning President Harding for an audience.

The union chiefs meeting, President Grable said, probably will be held at noon tomorrow. In all likelihood, he said ,an attempt will be made to secure a conference with President Harding in the afternoon.

The union leaders, President Grable said, wish to protest to President Harding against the condition of locomotives and equipment which they believe to be unsafe and dangerous. Alleged assaults upon union men now on strike by armed guards at railroad shops in all parts of the country also will be related to the president, President Grable said.

"Our big grievances," said President Grable, "are the railroads demands upon men not on strike to perfor mstrikers' duties and the general and highly dangerous condition of all equipments. These subjects will first be discussed in the conference of union leaders and then taken up with President Harding.

Discuss Proposals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The trio of striking railroad shop craft leaders here—B. M. Jewell, general strike leader; William H. Johnston of the machinists and J. P. Noonan, of the electrical workers—went into conference this afternoon with President Harding's new strike settlement proposals. There were intimations that the proposals had not made a favorable first impression upon them.

To Re-Convene Soon

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The heads of 148 American railways, which last week rejected President Harding's first program for settlement of the nationwide rail strike, probably will be asked to re-convene within four days to consider the latest proposal

OPEN PROBE TO FIX BLAME FOR REAR-END CRASH

Inquest Being Held to Determine Cause of Sulphur Springs Disaster.

37 Are Known to Have Been Killed In Saturday Night Wreck.

RELATE HORRIBLE TALES
(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 7.—Tales of weird and horrifying sights were being told by volunteer rescue workers who were at the scene of Saturday night's wreck at Sulphur Springs.

One told of finding a man pinioned to the earth by a huge splinter of wood, which was driven through the body. The man's pulse was beating as the rescurer lifted the body from its fastened position.

Actelyne torches were used to melt away steel to extricate a dead man caught in a mass of wreckage.

A woman was found in a dying condition with a piece of steel driven through her mouth, the far end protuding from her neck beneath the ear.

One body was cut completely in two while many others lay about in horrifying condition.

(International News Service.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 7.—Death's grim reaper had claimed thirty-seven lives today in the rear-end crash on the Missouri Pacific railroad at Sulphur Springs, Mo., Saturday night as investigations begun to determine its cause and fix responsibility.

Nearly 150 injured were in hospitals here and it is feared that some of those who are in a critical condition may die.

A coroner's inquest was being held at De Soto, county seat of Jefferson county, at which all surviving members of both train crews were to be the principal witnesses. Officials of the road were silent in advance of the inquest as to where to point an accusing finger.

The wreck was the most horrifying in the history of the state of Missouri and one of the wost disasters that has occurred in the country in many years.

Three Probes Under Way.

Three investigations were getting under way today. Besides the inquest being conducted at Desoto by Coroner George W. Elders, officials of the Missouri Pacific railroad company were laying plans to hold an investigation at Poplar Bluff, division point on the road.

A third probe was being started by the Missouri public service commission to which an official report of the wreck will be filed by the railroad company.

One presumpation is being freely made that Engineer Matthew (Ginger) Glenn of the Texas flyer, which plowed through the rear of the combination local standing on the tracks, had disregarded a block signal to stop before reaching the point of the disaster.

Glenn was killed outright when he attempted to jump clear of the collison. Clutched in Glenn's hand were train orders which he had been given "on the run" a few minutes before the

LOCAL DEMOCRATS TO MEET TUESDAY

County Convention Is to Be Held At the Court House.

Expected That Present Officers Will Succeed Selves.

Lancaster county democrats will comply with the state law by meeting in county convention at 10 a. m. Tuesday to draft a plaform for county candidates, elect delegates to the state convention August 15, and select a chairman, secretary and treasurer for the new county central committee.

Prospects are for a harmonious meeting, as all factions of the party appear to be united in support of the ticket nominated in the last primaries. This being the home county of C. W. Bryan, candidate for governor, he will probably be called upon to address the convention. Not much tim will be given to speech making however.

Delegates to the state convention will be picked, as the law provides, from the personnel of the county convention, and representation will be given to both sexes.

About 400 persons were elected in the primaries as delegates to the county convention. The county committee's call provides for a total of 476 delegates. Those present from any precinct will doubtless be authorized to cast its full vote.

The county gathering will be held in courtroom No. 1 at the courthouse. It is expected that Chairman Sterling F. Mutz and Secretary C. L. Clark of the democratic county committee will be re-eleteced.

HEAT BELIEVED SUICIDE CAUSE

Harry Gates Ends His Life Early Monday By Shooting.

Harry Gates, 33 years old, a farmer living fourteen miles northwest of Lincoln on the S. Y. A. highway, committed suicide Monday morning about 6 o'clock by shooting himself in head. Mr. Gates suffered a sunstroke about seven years ago, and was believed to have become temporarily deranged on account of the heat. He was in no financial difficulties, it was said.

Mr. Gates shot himself with a single barreled shotgun. The shooting took place in the barn on the farm. The gun was fired into the left side of his head, blowing away the top of his skull. Marks on his hand indicated that he had pulled the trigger with his left hand and held the barrel to his head with the other hand.

Mr. Gates is survived by a widow and one child. The body was taken to Castle, Roper & Matthews' funeral parlors.

No inquest will be held.

Pius Deplores Disorders Among Italian Factions

ROME, Aug. 7.—Military rule has been extended to the provinces of Ancona, Parma and Leghorn where in the last few days there has been sanguinary fighting between the extreme nationalists and the communists.

Pope Pius has expressed deep regret at the deepening hatred between the opposing factions which moves the people 'further away from the teaching of the divine Master."

The only remedy, he said, is a return to religion. The ordained clergy will be instructed to "impress the faithful with the necessity to pray for the restoration of faith and piety which alone can bring peace and love among men."

Lindsay Catches Many Big Bass In Wisconsin Water

Fishing for white bass with a long line containing many hocks, trailed in the wake of a motor boat, was the vacation pastime of Supremem Court Clerk H. C. Lindsay during ten days spent in the vicinity of his old home at Lodi, Wis. By this method he and his companions caught over a hundred fish on each day of several mornings.

"We were camping at Lake Mendota, a body of water five miles across," said Mr. Lindsay, "and would go out in the motorboat to watch the ripples on the surface indicating the presence of bass. When one was sighted, we would head for the place at about 6 or 7 miles an hour, and as we went past the fish would come an and grab at the artificial bait on the hooks. It was no trouble at all to catch them."

Mrs. Lindsay and their daughter, Ruth, remained at Lodi for a longer visit with their relatives and friends.

BUDGET PROBLEM BEFORE COUNCIL; FEW OBJECTIONS

Commissioners Have Little Complaint On Distribution of Funds.

Resignation Of Fire Chief Steele Accepted by Council.

Consideration of the yearly budget, the resignation of John E. Steele, chief of the fire department, and the report of the deputy city attorney advising the council that it was not mandatory for them to turn the records of the municipal coal yard over to the private dealers for examination, combined with a large amount of routine business and improvement district consideration, to make a full session for the city council Monday afternoon.

The budget was scheduled to go through as written although some minor objections were certain to be raised by commissioners whose estimates had been pared. Mr. Schroeder was not entirely satisfied with the amount allowed him for street lighting, which was $55,000 in place of $40,000 allowed last year and the $79,000 he asked for this year. Mr. Schroeder in making up his estimate had reported to the council the large number of street lights already in operation and had listed the many additional lights needed or demanded by the public. His allowance of $55,000, however, was destined to stand.

Very Few Complaints.

Commissioner Bryan expressed himself as fairly well pleased with his allowance and explained that the cut from the request for funds to pave streets adjacent to city property did not disturb him and that he had included that in his estimate partly at the suggestion of Commissioner Dayton, who made the deductions. In other departments Mr. Bryan fared rather well and in fact it was necessary appropriations made for his department which forced Mr. Dayton to abandon his plan for lowering the city levy more than one-fourth mill. Mr. Dayton, however, was agreed that the extra sewer expenditures were absolutely necessary.

Mayor Zehrung reported himself satisfied with the allowances made his departments. There is a hint in the increased appropriation for the judgment fund, that the commissioners are still hopeful of a settlement with Judge Stewart on a price for the Stewart park tract north and west of Lincoln. Commissioner Wright is not here to complain of his allowances and he was cut less than usual so will probably have no late complaint to make. The refusal of the city to raise the salary of the fire chief was about the only request denied him.

The resignation of Chief Steele was to be accepted. It is effective September 1, and the city is already in the field to find a new chief. In all these searches the commissioners are hoping to find a man as nearly like Chief Neil T. Sommer as possible, public officials seeming to agree that he was the ideal type for the position.

To Refuse Names.

The council accepted the opinion of C. R. Wilke, deputy city attorney, and will not turn over the records of the coal yard to the private dealers unless forced to do so by court order. Mr. Bryan had previously announced that only a court order could force him to divulge the names of his patrons.

The biggest single improvement project now being considered is the paving of South Thirteenth street from D to South streets. Petitions covering all of this district but the north two blocks, have been filed and Mr. Bryan plans on securing the paving of the two blocks between D and B by resolution if necessary. A petition for paving on Everett street, Twenty-seventh to Twenty-ninth and on Twenty-eighth street from Garfield to Everett, was filed.

A protest on part of paving district 510, the protest being direced against the plan to pave Van Dorn street between Sheridan boulevard and South Twenty-seventh street, signed by Luella D. Andrews, Gladys W. Bunting, Frank Proudfit, Irwin F. Prey and Harry P. Letton, was filed Monday. The protest recites that the first three signers own all the improved property that would be served by such pavement, that they have satisfactory streets before their home snow and that taxes are already so high and paving costs so excessive that they wish to be relieved of the extra burden The present street is of cinders.

Chicago and Alton To Cancel Trains

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 7.—Announcement that a number of passenger trains on the Chicago and Alton railroad would be cancelled was made today. The trains cancelled are between Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City. The reason given is that there is not enough coal for the locomotives, the road having less than a week's suply. The cancellation order will go into effect on Aug. 10. The announcement by the road added that should the fuel situation continue to be acute, additional curtailment will be made.

COURT PETITIONED TO CHANGE TITLES ON REFERED LAWS

Petitioners Claim Those Submitted By Davis Are Unfair.

Submit Substitutes For Consideration Of District Judges.

John Havekost, Herman Meyer, H. D. Meyer and George H. Suhr filed a petition in the Lancaster county district court, Monday, through their attorneys, Sorenson & Bollen, against Darius M. Amsberry, Nebraska secretary of state, and Clarence A. Davis, attorney general, seeking to have the district court fix titles to four suspended laws, which will be presented to the voters at the November election on referendum.

Petitions referring the four laws to the people were filed with the secretary of state, July 25, 1921, and although required by law to fix titles within ten days thereafter it is alleged the attorney general did not do so until August 3, last. The titles fixed by the attorney general are attacked on four major grounds. It is claimed they are misleading and confusing, argumentaatative, unfair and prejudicial.

The title fixed to House Roll 193 by the attorney general reads: 'This is an act regulating the business of banking. It requires that before a bank may be chartered it must be shown that its establishment will be for the public convenience, advantage and necessity."

Offer a Substitute.

The title as proposed by the plaintiffs reads: "Under the provisions of said House Roll 193 no new bank may be established unless those desiring to organize the bank are able to prove 'that the public necessity, convenience and advantage will be promoted by permitting such proposed bank to engage in business.'"

The title fixed by the attorney general to House Roll 617 reads: "This is an act to protect the rights of any person to work and to enter upon and pursue any lawful employment. Under criminal penalty it prohibits annoying, abusive, threatening and persistent communications to an unwilling listener, designed to influence said person from continuing in or seeking employment. It prohibits any interference by word

10,000 CHINESE DEAD IN STORM

Destruction of Swatow Almost Complete, Latest Reports Reveal.

Fire and Looting By Lawless Element Adds to Typhoon Horrors.

(Associated Press.)

HONG KONG, Aug. 7.—With casualties now estimated at 10,000, detailed reports are revealing the full extent of the typhoon and tidal wave which last Wednesday swept the port of Swatow, 250 miles north of here.

Two British steamers had been reported ashore and today it was also learned that a third, bound from Hong Kong to Shanghai was wrecked but that her passengers were saved.

Desolation hovers over the ruined city and horror haunts its streets.

In the native quarters hundreds of corpses and the carcasses of animals are mingled with the debris. Human remains protrude from the uncleared wreckage. It is estimated that more than 75 per cent of the city's buildings were destroyed, including the silk knitting factories and the old German consulate.

The American consulate and the Standard Oil company's godown, or warehouse, were slightly damaged.

Some Chinese attempted to loot the wreckage, but the native police soon stopped this. A Swatow Chinese paper, however, reports that lawless elements raided the houses of the typhoon victims and held up passersby for plunder.

The police frustrated an attempt to loot the offices of the Banque Induztrielle de Chine, arresting two men.

At midnight Wednesday fire broke out in a Chinese hotel, gutting it and adding to the terrifying experiences of the inhabitants.

The destruction was almost complete with the exception of the Chinese postoffice, a new three story brick building No building escaped damage.

To all appearances Swatow is the scene of a war ravaged town—one heap of ruins The tidal wave which swept the bund, or road along the harbor at the height of the typhoon, inflicted considerable damage to the water front buildings. Losses were heavy in this district.

The British in Hong Kong have remitted $10,000 to the British consul at Swatow and are shipping rice for distribution among the homeless and destitute. The Swatow municipality charitable association is raising subscriptions for a relief fund.

No Possibility of Ferguson Being Put Out of Race

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 7.—There is "no possibility" of Former Governor James E. Ferguson being declared ineligible as a candidate for renoination to the United States senate, Frank C. Davis, chairman of the state democrats executive committee said today. The executive committee met here to consider the petition of Judge John W. Gaines that Ferguson's name be left off the ballot.

Judge Gaines contends that Ferguson is ineligible because he was impeached as governor on the charge of having misused funds.

Davis said the question was gone into thoroughly before the July primary, that it was then decided Ferguson was entirely eligible as a candidate and that he anticipated no change in the committee's decision.

May Not Send Doolittle to McCook Field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 7.—Aviation officers of the Eighth corps area said today that orders sending Lieut. James H .Doolittle to McCook field, Dayton, Ohio, on August 15, probably would be amended so that the flyer might have an opportunity to repair his wrecked plane and make another attempt to make a coast to coast one-stop flight. His first attempt ended at Jacksonville, Sunday night, when his plane swerved into the surf after hitting a soft spot in the sand at Pablo eBach, Fla., and turned over. The pilot was uninjured.

The plan, it was said, had the approval of enough operators to insure settlement of the coal strike.

PARENTS' DUTIES ALL IMPORTANT

Dr. Edwards Tells Assembly People Biggest Job Is Training Children.

Recreation Program Popular —Tennis Tourney Semi-Finals Tuesday.

"The most important duty of this generation is to train the next," said Dr. Loren Edwards, who led the 9 o'clock conference at Epworth park Monday on, "Who is responsible for the morals of our young people." Dr Edwards, in a twenty-five minute talk, pounded home the fact that parental discipline and attention, or the lack of it, is the underlying cause of much of the present-day attitude and actions of the boys and girls.

The speaker declared that he does not share the apprehension of some people in regard to the young people. Girl's dresses, he said for example, is in many cases not a question of morals but of sanity, as there are always some who would follow any style. He admitted, however, that the question of dress and similar matters which are generally criticized by older people, have their moral reaction.

Children and parents have grown away from the old fashioned idea of home, asserted Dr. Edwards, with a consequent letting down of parental influence. He is a strong proponent of the exercise by parents of the privlege of making decisions for their children, up to a certain age, rather than allowing them "to run wild." He advocates also a church program, built not entirely for adults, but taking into account the younger generation.

Talks on Redemption

At 11 oclock Dr. Edwards delivered a strong address on world redemption, and the personal duty of every Christian to take an active part in the great program of human evangelism.

The organized recreational program at the Assembly, under Rev. Alfred Hunter, is atracting the young people. A large class turns out each morning to learn and lay the games which Rev. Hunter outlines for use in social church work. Under him, as assistants, are Edward Schmidt, as secretary, Dean Smith in charge of volley ball, A. H. Eggleston, who is handling the tennis tourney, C. F. Mills, the horseshoe tournament, and Rev. J. E. Jones, volley ball. Men's boat races were to be held Monday afternoon, and women's boat races Tuesday. Some of all of the tennis semi-finals will be played Tuesday, and the finals probably Wednesday.

Other activities which fill in between the formal programs are the band rehearsals-concerts of League members, directed by Rev. Hunter, boating on the lake, and daily radio concerts given by Nebraska Radio company.

FOSTER EJECTED FROM COLORADO

Taken to State Line by Rangers and Sent Into State of Kansas.

Adjutant General Says Union Leader Is Ousted For Sake of Safety.

(Associated Press.)

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 7.—Forcible ejection from Colorado by state rangers of William Z Foster, leader of the big steel strike two years ago and nationally known labor organizer, was "for the best interests of the state," and "no law was consulted," Adjutant General Hamrock said today.

Foster who was characterized as a "dangerous radical" by the adjutant general, was taken from a hotel here shortly after his arrival from Salt Lake City, placed in an automobile and escorted by the rangers to a town on the Kansas state line, Hamrock announced.

The adjutant general said Foster first said he intended going on to Kansas City where he was to address a labor meeting tonight, but later he said, Foster declared he was going to Omaha, Neb.

Foster resented strenously being expelled from the city and state, telling the rangers his mission here was "legitimate." He offered no physical resistance, however, when he was ordered into the automobile A corps of officers and rangers had stood guard awaiting the arrival of Foster last night, but the latter was not detected until had registered at the hotel, where rangers seized him.

"He would have been sure to start some trouble and lawbreaking here," said Mr. Hamrock. "Just for the sake of safety, we decided Foster would not need his inflammatory literature while on his journey out of the state and so we confiscated it. We told him he could get a lot more in the east if he needed it there, but that it would do him any good in Colorado.

"We do not intend to stop with Foster," the adjutant general added, "but any radical who enters the state whom we consider a menace to law and order will be treated likewise."

WEATHER SERVICE PIONEER HISTORY

Bureau Developed Through Volunteer Efforts of the Early Settlers.

Has Issued Monthly Statement of Nebraska Conditions Since 1878.

The history of the Nebraska weather service furnishes one of the most interesting items of all historical events of the state. According to Professor G. A. Loveland, the present director, and himself a pioneer in the Nebraska weather service, the earliest records of the weather here were those kept by the soldiers at the frontier army posts, commencing in 1849. The earliest preserved records—kept by settlers—commenced at Omaha in 1857, Brownville and Bellevue in 1858, Nebraska City and Fontanelle in 1859, Mr. Loveland declares. But for twenty years he says, there were no records kept. Neither was there an organized attempt to encourage the work or to collect and preserve the results.

In January, 1878, Gilbert E. Bailey, professor of chemistry and physics in the University of Nebraska, organized the Nebraska volunteer weather service similar to a service organized in Iowa three years before, "for the purpose of collecting facts and securing an accurate and complete history of the weather of Nebraska." The organization, thus formed, has continued and has issued without a single omission, a monthly statement of the weather which prevailed in the state.

Prof. Loveland declares that much credit should be given to the intelligent citizens who have composed this band of workers and especially in the early days to the "director" who contributed largely in enthusiasm, time and money in order to obtain the object sought.

These directors were Gilbert E. Bailey, 1878; S. R. Thompson, 1878 to 1884; Swezey, 1884 to 1896 when the whole work was placed under the direction of the officials of the United States weather bureau. Mr. Loveland for many years was the assistant of Mr. Swezey. During the whole period since 1878 the place of the weather bureau was subject to shifts. It was first at Crete then at Omaha and finally at Lincoln. Mr. Bailey and Mr. Thompson were professors at the University of Nebraska and Mr. Swezey occupied a similar chair at Doane college and later at the University of Nebraska. The work was turned over to each succeeding director in the middle of the year.

A Volunteer Service.

This, according to Prof. Loveland, has always been and now is essentially a volunteer service. In the early times, the observer furnished his own instruments and kept the record. At first, the observer copied the record on a scrap of paper and sent it to the director, paying the postage himself. Later, the director was able to assemble sufficient money to provide rude forms for rendering the report. The next step was to supply postage but there was not much extra money, Mr. Loveland says, and a lack of forms and postage crippled the service.

Finally the weather bureau detailed a man to aid the director and authorized him to furnish forms. Henceforth reports were mailed out under the government franking privileges.

A short time after the franking consent was obtained the weather bureau began to loan instruments to some observers, gradually increasing the number until most of them were supplied with government instruments. About this time the United States weather bureau assumed complete control and responsibility for the work of collecting weather data.

The number of observers was few at first—about twenty in the first years of the organization but increased rather consistently afterward. It was doubled in the first twenty years and more than doubled in the following twenty years.

Thus it will be seen that the Nebraska weather service is practically self made, beginning at a time when the pioneers in the movement paid for it out of their own pockets and struggling through the following years with little else than the enthusiasm of the workers to keep the fires burning. Nebraska surely owes much to these early weather pioneers.

Free State Army Capture Many Men

DUBLIN, Aug. 7—The capture of more than 180 prisoners and three towns from the irregulars was announced today in advices from "the front." An official communique from the Free State government charges that the outbreak in Dublin Saturday night was an attempt by irregulars to isolate the city by blowing up the bridges and tearing up the railway lines. It has been completely frustrated.

CHAPTER 714

"You wouldn't just say you'd found a way—to bring Betty back into harmony with life again," stammered Tony, jerking to his feet and starting to pace up and down the pretty sunroom which is the loveliest spot in Carlotta's big old home. "You'd have to—mean it."

"I do mean it," I smiled. "I've found out for myself that—if idle hands get into mischief, idle brains—get into misery. But if Betty sits around and thinks and regrets and goes milling about in a circle of might-have-beens, she'll go out of her head. That's all."

"Granted," said Tony. "Now what?"

His eyes warmed from ice-blue to a softness that was as kindly as a blessing. And his mouth corners twinkled after a fashion all their own. Resentfully I recognized the charm and sweetness which, added to his fine sturdiness of character, makes Anthony Norreys irresistible to Carlotta and—at least a focal point of interest to Betty. And I found myself yearning for sufficient nerve to blurt that out my main object was to keep him from becoming the center of Betty's universe. However, I restrained myself and said in my best, clean-cut business manner:

"First of all, there's the question of living. Betty mustn't go back to her big—and now empty—apartment."

"The housing question," Tony said dryly.

"Precisely," I replied as drily. "Betty mustn't go home alone and she can't stay here ——"

Tony interrupted me with a glance. It was so shrewd and penetrating that it had the actual effect of a traffic cop's signal. To it he added:

"Therefore—Dreamwold."

"We seem to be thinking along parallel lines," I said with a certain grim amusement that it should be so. "Of course, there's no question of Virginia's wanting Betty. I've an idea she'll come sailing into town majestically the minute she hears of your return. And then shortly thereafter she'll sail out again with Betty stowed away safely under her wing. Betty won't give Virginia any—back talk. She'll just do as told."

"She won't give any one any back talk," repeated Tony, the phrase sounding highly descriptive in his rich and mellow tones. "Poor Betty will do precisely as told. I've had quite a bit of time in which to prove that. She's in a daze. She hears a voice she trusts conveying an order or a suggestion and she reacts to that stimulus. She doesn't seem to have any inner voices to guide her just now."

"It's ghastly," I cried. "Our independent, vivid, purposeful direct Betty reduced to a state of being an—automaton. I wonder how long."

"I've spoken to the doctors about it," replied Tony, grimly. "The shock of Terry's going was terrific. It came at a time when she was struggling to readjust herself to a situation hard enough in itself. Her hand"——

Tony looked at his own right hand as he spoke. Knowing that inside glove he always wears is a piece of wooden mechanism realizing that he has designated himself again and again as a "hulk," I was the more impressed by the magnificence of the man who could grapple with Betty's problem as he was doing. His calling a spade a spade isn't easy.

I waited in silence until he found the courage to go on.

"Betty isn't reconciled to being maimed. The operation appears not to have been a success. The handicap of having only one hand is greater than you can imagine. For Betty there was the blow to her fastidiousness, the marring of her beauty. Terry was helping her find herself again. And then, when Terry went—snuffed out like a candle—Betty had nothing to cling to. She has to have something to cling to. There must be some one on whom she can absolutely count. I think, because of my being as maimed as she is, she feels with her useless hand she'll want me."

"And she can't have you!" I cried vehemently.

"Anne, what do you mean?" asked Tony.

"There's Carlotta," I murmured, committed now to the course on which I had embarked.

"Yet I was afraid to meet Tony's eyes. I could fancy them—ice-blue, penetrating and still as remote as Jim's are when I've gone past some barrier I should have respected. I felt that what I'd done was in execrable taste and yet in loyalty to Carlotta this much was inevitable. But Tony's voice—warm, understanding and full of reserve strength—made me wonder if I had rushed in where more angels might have feared to tread.

"There is Carlotta," Tony said proudly. "I think I was on the verge of taking advantage of her generosity and her sympathy. That girl is about the most amazingly magnificent woman I've ever beheld, Anna. She dazzles. No, it's not your turn to speak. I'm [illegible] to speak out and [illegible] bonds of reticence you must make me [illegible]."

"I can't!" I cried. "I saw Carlotta's face and yours when you came in from dining together the night—the night Betty's wire came. You were both radiant. Carlotta would know her man wherever she found him. I know—she once told me—I'm sure"—

Tony broke in gravely and stopped my floundering attempt to right matters without betraying Carlotta's confidence.

"There's nothing you have a right to say to me. I gave you, however, the right to insist. I confess that if—you hadn't stopped me I would have gone on blundering into the garden of Carlotta's soul, of battering at the gates. But Carlotta Sturges has a right to youth and strength and unmarried [illegible]. No hulk is good enough for her. She must learn that. I must see that she comes to realize. Betty's need of me is providential. There is nothing you could say now if you would, is there, my dear?"

"No," I said slowly and gathering myself to meet the situation in the one possible way in which neither Tony nor any one else would ever expect me to handle it. "And now let's go back to the place where we started. I told you I had a place in view for Betty—a place in the business world. Do you remember?"

"Something like that," agreed Tony, trying to adjust himself to the right-about-face [illegible] "[illegible] your own business," I said quietly. "There's a place for Betty there. What do you think of the plan?"

Tony stared at me incredulously. Both of us were remembering the thing—the day when Tony's signature on a bit of paper had secured me the ten thousand dollars capital I needed for my enterprise. I waited for Tony's answer, realizing that the refuge I was offering Betty must seem to him [illegible]—flimsy.

SHE'LL TRY FOR GOVERNORSHIP IF SHE MAKES SENATE

Mrs. Jennie MacMillan.

"There's no reason why a woman should not sit in the governor's chair at Albany; and if I am successful in my campaign for the state senate I'll try for that post, but with their present equipment I do not believe that women should aspire to the presidency." That is the opinion of Mrs. Jennie MacMillan of Oak Park, New York, the only woman justice in the state.

Miss Margaret N. Rogers of Philadelphia, who has been doing Red Cross work among the people of "Turkey Town," the Moslem quarter of Podgoritza, Montenegro, is called "Angel" by the population.

How to Look and Feel Bright in Hot Weather

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the afternoon or evening, just bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. You will find this more refreshing than an hour's rest.

As a wrinkle-remover the saxolite lotion is remarkably successful. Its action is almost magical. The deepest furrows as well as the finest lines—whether due to age, illness, weather or worry—are immediately affected. Enlarged pores are reduced, flabby skin is "drawn in," facial contour is improved wonderfully. The simple ingredients of course can be had at any drug store and you need not hesitate to try the lotion, as it will not harm any skin in the least.—Advertisement.

YOUTH DROWNS IN MISSOURI RIVER

Walter Tillman Sinks While Swimming Near Falls City.

(Special to The Star.)

FALLS CITY, Neb., Aug. 7.—Walter Tillman, seventeen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Tillman, was downed late Sunday afternoon while swimming in the Missouri river near his home, fourteen miles northeast of this city. Two small boys who were with him made a desperate attempt at rescue, but were driven back by the swift undertow. Farmers spent the greater part of last night in dragging the river and Monday morning resorted to dynamite in an effort to recover the body, but all attempts have thus far been futile.

Rapid Progress In Irrigation Plans In West Nebraska

OGALLALA, Neb., Aug. 7.—During the past two weeks progress has been rapid and two new reservoir sites have been located in connection with the irrigation project on the south table

The survey of the west end of the project or on the land between Ogallala and Grant, is complete. That means that all reservoirs, the main canals and laterals and the land under the ditches have been mapped out.

Included in this survey are two new reservoirs northeast of Grant with a total of 15,000 acre feet capacity

This makes a natural reservoir capacity of 50,000 with but little extra work

The location of these two reservoirs saves the digging of five miles of ditch.

The engineers are now working near Sutherland and Paxton and expect to complete the work on the east end next week

As this project develops it appears to be one of the most practical as well as economical ones in the entire west, and as development goes on men with land near the ditch are becoming more and more enthused over the possibility of doubling production at a nominal cost

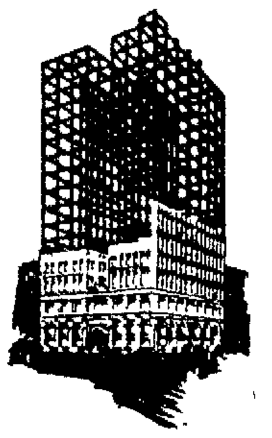
Outer Beauty—Inner Strength



Beneath the beauty of a skyscraper stands a skeleton of steel—hidden, yet holding the great structure together for all time.

Under the weatherproof surface of Flex-a-Tile Giant Shingles lies a base of genuine Richardson felt—hidden, yet giving tensile strength without which surface beauty cannot last.

The best obtainable materials, and all the skill of more than 50 years' experience are built into every piece of Richardson felt. Scientific manufacture is primarily responsible for the long life of Flex-a-Tile Roofing.

This superfine felt is first thoroughly saturated with natural asphalt; then asphalt-coated on both sides. That is why Giant Shingle roofs offer perfect resistance to heat, cold or moisture from above or beneath.

FLEX-A-TILE
HOUSE TOPS

Outer beauty is added to this inner strength by a layer of genuine slate from our quarries at Flex-a-Tile, Georgia. The rich, natural green of this special slate blends beautifully with any surroundings and any type or architecture. It cannot be imitated, because nature produced it and age has mellowed it.

Flex-a-Tile Giants give to a roof, whether new or old, an appearance of strength and permanence that adds to the beauty of the entire house. And they are better adapted for laying right over the old roof covering than any other type of asphalt shingles.

Telephone for further information.

Flex-a-Tile Giant Shingles are 80% heavier and 100% stiffer than standard asphalt shingles, and cost less than a third more. The extra thickness adds to the beauty of the roof as well as to its long life. Color is natural green, or red if you prefer. Flex-a-Tile House Tops are a product of The Richardson Company.

FACTIONAL HEADS BEGIN PARLEY TO END COAL STRIKE

Operators and Miners Meet In Effort to Draft a New Agreement.

Tonnage Represented Regarded as Sufficient to Warrant Getting Together.

(International News Service.)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 7.—At the request of President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, the assembling of the joint conference of miners and operators in the central competitive field to settle the bituminous coal strike was postponed until 3 p. m. today.

Instead President Lewis met in closed executive session with his [illegible] committee—[illegible] representing [illegible] field in the district.

Gather For Parley.

(Associated Press.)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—Negotiations for a settlement of the coal strike got underway today. The outcome of the conference is [illegible].

Leaders of the striking miners began parleys with [illegible] operators of the central competitive field, with approximately one-third of the tonnage production represented. The tonnage represented was generally regarded as sufficient to warrant an agreement between the operators and workers, should the conference bring forth the terms acceptable to both parties. A settlement in the central field, coal men declare, would furnish a foundation for all other districts and would bring about a quick resumption of the soft coal production [illegible] of the soft coal districts. Adjustment of differences in the hard coal regions would be a natural consequence of the bituminous settlement, miners' leaders said.

The miners are represented in the conference by all their national officers, the general policy committee of the union and the scale committee, so that any basis of agreement may be discussed at the meeting. The exact representation of the producers will not be known until negotiations are well underway, for it is regarded as certain that many mine owners are unwilling to make known their attitude toward the meeting, called by President Lewis of the mine workers until the trend of affairs is made more definite in the beginning of deliberations.

The threat of government intervention in the dispute hangs over the conference and for that reason those in close touch with the strike believe a sincere effort for peace will be made.

President John L. Lewis of the miners said he was optimistic over the possible results and held out hope of an early return to work of soft coal miners.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 7.—Norfolk Star, Tom D.A. Russell horse ridden by Capt. H. E. CHAPTER XXXVI

The first part of the evening passed more comfortably than Adelaide had dared to hope.

In the first place, Henry Hollingshead suggested that a tray be brought to his wife's sitting room with supper for her, himself and the attendant. All he wanted this evening, he averred, was some salad and a cup of coffee. Adelaide said this would suit her to perfection.

The invalid smiled with pleasure at the idea of having her husband and companion sup with her.

"It is doleful eating alone," she remarked. "I do not understand why I feel too weak to get down to the dining room any more. I wonder if I am losing the use of my legs as well as the sight of my eyes."

"Nonsense," her husband exclaimed. "You are a little feeble just now, but your strength will return when spring comes back. If not, I will carry you up and down stairs," he ended with a laugh.

Yet there was no mirth in his eyes as they rested on the pale and slender figure in the armchair. Her hair was graying fast and her skin had a transparency that worried him. The blind woman could not suspect what was in his mind, for he laughed and chatted as if he had not a care in the world.

"This is what I call cozy," he declared when the trio were seated about the small table in front of Mrs. Hollingshead's chair. "We don't envy the young people any restaurant supper."

"It is only Patty who is gone to a restaurant," the mother corrected. "She and young Forsythe were to leave Dick at the Grand Central, where he takes the train for some place in Westchester. By the way, I forgot to ask what [illegible]—I forgot to ask what the name of the place is."

"So did I," the father said. "But it makes no difference. Dick is the kind that does not need a guardian. He told me he was spending the night with friends somewhere up the river."

Adelaide averted her eyes as the speaker glanced at her. Here was she, knowing the deception practiced upon the father and mother by their children, yet unable to say a word to enlighten either of them. It might be all right to deceive the invalid for her own good. But why should not the father know that his son and daughter had gone together to a road-house north of the city and would return together some time before or after midnight?

A Difficult Position.

She recalled Richard's assertion that his father would disapprove of the expedition. Had he been her father she would rather tell the truth and face disapproval than act a lie to him. Yet she was acting a lie in concealing the truth from him.

Her common sense told her that she had no right to disclose a secret that was not hers. Such being the case, it was foolish of her to have a guilty feeling when she met the honest gaze of the unsuspecting father.

"Is it snowing still?" Mrs. Hollingshead asked suddenly. "I hear the wind rising. It is going to be a bad night."

Adelaide crossed the room and looked out of the window. The wind was indeed rising and was blowing the light snow into drifts that stretched from one side of the street to the other. What a night in which to drive on country roads!

"It is not snowing as hard as it was," she said truthfully. She did not add that enough of the white mass had already fallen to almost block the side streets.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Hollingshead went to his own room, as his wife expressed a wish to go to bed.

"I am going to read myself," the husband said. "I shall read for some time before sleeping"—in an aside to the girl—"if Mrs. Hollingshead needs me for anything just call me."

"I do not think she will need you," Adelaide answered [illegible]. "[illegible] more [illegible] than she was [illegible] the evening."

"You are a great comfort, child," the man said, [illegible] laying a fatherly hand on her shoulder. "You [illegible] her and [illegible] her more than anybody else can."

"Thank you," Adelaide smiled. "It is good of you to tell me that. I am very fond of her," she added impulsively.

"I am sure you are," the husband affirmed.

A Pathetic Note.

He went from the room as Estelle entered to get her mistress ready for the night.

"You'll stay with me until I am in bed, Addie, won't you?" the invalid suggested.

"Certainly," the girl replied.

But when Mrs. Hollingshead was in bed, and Estelle had gone to her own room, the blind woman clung to Adelaide's hand as the girl tucked the covers about her shoulders before leaving her.

"I don't mean to be selfish," she quavered. "But would you mind very much lying down there on the couch for a while—until I get a bit more sleepy—or until Patty comes in? I am so lonely here in the dark!" she explained pathetically.

A surge of pity made Adelaide answer unhesitatingly, "Of course, I will stay with you. You go to sleep, and I will cover myself with this rug and lie here on the couch and take a little nap myself."

"Cover yourself up warmly," Mrs. Hollingshead commanded.

"I will. Don't you bother about me, dear. Go to sleep."

Ten minutes later the patient's even breathing told the girl that her suggestion had been followed. She listened to the regular inhalations and exhalations until her own eyelids became heavy and she drifted off into a deep slumber.

In his own room Mr. Hollingshead grew tired of reading and, switching off his light, was soon lost in a sound sleep.

Outside the wind rose higher and the snow continued to blow into deep drifts.

AGRICULTURE NOTES.

For many years the serum plant at the University of Nebraska agricultural college has been the state distributing station for blackleg vaccine furnished by the United States department of agriculture for free distribution to stock raisers who might apply for it. Those in charge of the station declare that this free service cannot be rendered much longer because congress has discontinued the appropriation for the manufacture and free distribution of the vaccine. There is, however, a quantity of the vaccine on hand sufficient to supply the needs of the state for several weeks or months and it will be distributed as usual as long as it lasts.

CRETE—At a meeting recently of the Saline county farm bureau board, it was decided to move the serum depot from the farm bureau office here to the farm of George Leavitt, five miles northeast of Crete. Mr. Leavitt will keep a supply of serum, vaccinating instruments and [illegible] on hand.

This [illegible] being overcome by [illegible] they will retire [illegible] and the cause of [illegible] some other factor. The county agent advises [illegible] raisers to construct frames covered with [illegible] for shade on farms where there is insufficient sun shelter. Some form of shade, he says, aids materially in keeping up the summer [illegible] condition and also is [illegible] important in postponing the moulting.

This year's honor woman is Marjorie Frances Murray, a Bryn Mawr graduate. The second in rank in this year's class is also a woman—Virginia Kneeland Frantz.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

THE BEGINNING PLACE.

Before this country can hope to stabilize its social and economic conditions, or before the industrial problems can be satisfactorily solved, it is necessary to "get right" on the fundamental principles of our government. Even though repeated unto weariness, it is absolutely essential that the citizens know what the Declaration of Independence means when it asserts the inherent right of the individual to be "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." It means that the individual may pursue these ends unhampered by law corporation, organization or individual.

It is provided that life shall not be taken without the due process of law. It provides that liberty shall be enjoyed, but this is in no way to be interpreted that the individual's liberty shall mean the infringement of another's liberty. It is not license. Rights and privileges mean obligations and duties.

The right to pursue happiness means that a man may work to provide the necessities and comforts of life, and no law, corporation or other interest shall prevent him from so doing so long as his work does not interfere with the happiness of others.

To comprehend these inalienable rights fully, it must be remembered that ours is a government by the majority. The aim of our government is to provide the greatest good for the greatest number, and under no circumstances is it in keeping with the principles of our government to permit a few to dictate to the many.

If America is to enjoy the peace and prosperity of which our forefathers dreamed, we must understand and faithfully abide by these fundamentals of government. Not to know, or not to believe in these principles makes an individual utterly unfit to be an American citizen.

FAMILY GATHERINGS.

A Chicago cartoonist, under the caption of "Who Remembers When," draws a picture of an old fashioned dinners were served, but on many occasions and nieces gathered under the roof of the entertaining relative. A vast majority of the grownups today will remember such scenes in their youthful days. It was not alone on Thanksgiving and Christmas that such family dinners dinners were served, but on man yoccasions during the year. Uncle Ed and his family would drive in from the farm. Cousin Harry and his new bride would be there, all the aunts eyeing Ed's new wife. Grandfather and grandmother would have seats of honor. All would be there, probably sixteen or twenty.

Those who recall those days will remember that somehow the young folks were on hand as well as the elders, and what is more astounding according to our modern lights, the young folks would be able to find entertaining and pleasure with the older people. After the big dinner, the men folks gathered on the porch and smoked while the women folks made quick work of the dish washing. An hour or so later Uncle Will would get out his fiddle and Sister Sue would be coaxed to the piano "which hadn't been tuned since a year ago last November." The boys and girls would cluster around and soon the "parlor" would be resounding with church songs and popular melodies. Thus passed the day.

There are a lot of unenthusiastic things to say about those old time family gatherings. Cooking all morning in a hot kitchen was not a thing of joy. Some of the old chairs brought down from the attic did not make the most comfortable seats. Verily, there is some truth in the modern statement that they had a good time because they didn't know any better. And yet, without literally going back to the old automobile-less, movie-less days, wouldn't it be possible to mix in some of those family gatherings with our modern jazz times? Weary as mother was when she went to bed that night "after the big dinner," wasn't she a deal happier than many a mother who goes to bed nowadays and finds sleep impossible because she is wondering where her boy or her girl is? There is a lot to be said in favor of those family dinners when all the uncles and cousins came over to spend the day.

A not seriously vital but an interesting question is how did it happen that the state chairman of the republican party, Mr. McCloud, used the state mansion as a meeting place for candidates and political lieutenants last Saturday? The mansion is a building erected by the people of Nebraska as a home for their governor. To use it for the political interests of one party was most certainly not dreamed of when the taxpayers built it although it may be presumed that the politicians were reasonably carefully about flicking their ashes about and leaving cigar stubs behind. Anyway, that is beside the point. An efficient janitor may clean up the place so that it looks as it did before. The interesting part of it is, Who told Chairman McCloud he could use it for a political gabfest?

A HIGHWAY SLOGAN.

The Lincoln Automobile club, for the purpose of encouraging good roads and to induce travelers and trade to come to Lincoln, has adopted the slogan, "All Roads Lead to Lincoln." The old Roman phrase has been paraphrased many times and it will no doubt serve the epople of Lincoln well. There is something inspiring and impelling in the solemn declaration—All roads lead to Lincoln.

When all is said and done about Nebraska's road building, the final fact remains, Nebraska has a road system of which she may well be proud. Transcontinental tourists time and again pay tribute to the splendid highways of this state. The major highways especially are so well constructed that they shed water almost as rapidly as pavement and for driving they are much preferred by many, due to the fact that they have a "give" which makes easier riding. The farmers of Nebraska are also appreciative of the highways and those who live off the highways are anxious to have their roads well cared for. It is a revelation to the many who has driven very little except on the state highways to make a drive circling about Lincoln. For the most part, the lesser roads, or tributaries to the main arteries, are in excellent condition. This means that trade is not only induced to come to Lincoln but the farmer himself, by being able to haul his products over good roads, is making an appreciable saving in transportation.

For good and sufficient reasons the Lincoln Automobile club has chosen the slogan, "All roads lead to Lincoln. It is hoped that in spirit this slogan will contain the thought that "The Best Roads Lead to Lincoln." With such a thought in mind there will ever be the inspiration to maintain as well as build the best roads possible. The thought implies an obligation which is necessary if we are to have good roads, an obligation to see that the best roads do lead to Lincoln.

"Some one has declared that many of the sharks found in the Pacific and Indian oceans are harmless. But how is a person who happens to be in the water going to tell the harmless variety from the other kind?" asks the Des Moines Register. That's easy; put your arm in its mouth.

The primary has its many virtues and its many shortcomings. The chief criticism against it is that it gives so many politicians an opportunity to explain "how it happened."

Isn't the society department becoming quite brutally frank when it refers to a newly married couple going away on their "money moon?"

Experts say the nation is becoming more athletic. That is due, no doubt, to the pedestrian's daily exercise in dodging automobiles.

Someday all the McCormicks will get married and settled down and then we can get down to the other vital questions in life.

Men dress for comfort, says the confirmed bachelor, women for the comfort of men's eyes.

Comment by the Press

LIBERTIES.

Liberty bonds of all issue and Victory notes are all above par in the open market. Some are at or above 101.

Men and women who paid 100 cents on the dollar for them when the government put them on sale have had their interest and can now recover their principal with a smart profit.

Men and women who bought these securities when they sold below par have reaped a rich harvest. The Wall Street Journal figures that the average price of the Liberty and Victory issues has advanced 15.21 per cent from the low level of 1921. This advance has increased the price of the outstanding bonds by the sum of about $1,300,000,000.

All this increase did not go into the pockets of speculators or bond buyers. Liberties and Victory notes in large amounts are generally held by the original buyers. Not all the baby bonds were sold for vacation money in 1919. Not all the men and women who gladly plunged into debt in 1917 and 1918 to help finance the war were afflicted with an ungovernable desire to waste their substance in 1919 and 1920.

There are still a great many of Uncle Sam's promises to pay in bureau drawers, and under carpets, and in other homely hiding places. The owners of these bought from the treasury and have held on. They saw the market price of their bonds go down and they sat tight. Thousands of them will sell at a profit; other thousands will hold onto their government bonds until the treasury pays them off.

And it is something to know that the banks of the country are still steady and heavy buyers of Liberties. What is a good investment for shrewd American bankers to make ought to seem a good investment to the American public.—New York Herald.

NOTHING DONE ABOUT HERRIN.

Six weeks have elapsed since the Herrin massacre. So far as appears, not a single definite step has been taken either by the local or the state authorities of Illinois to apprehend and try the leaders of the mob that murdered in cold blood and with unexampled ferocity the non-union workers, after they had surrendered under a flag of truce.

The National Coal Association, however, has made its own investigation, and now reports not only that "at least five hundred of the mob can be arrested any time Attorney General Brundage of Illinois gives the word," but that the massacre was the result of a well-laid conspiracy, and not the fruit of a sudden and uncontrolled riot.

The complete report has been laid before the governor of Illinois, and the press statement given out at the same time declares that President John Lewis of the United Mine Workers and State Senator Sneed, President of the Williams County sub-district, "must assume direct responsibility for throwing a match into the powder-box."

We shall now learn whether the great state of Illinois is to suffer the unspeakable disgrace of the Herrin affair to become a permanent stain on her escutcheon, or is to wipe it out by a vigorous drive for justice.—Minneapolis Journal.

More Truth than Poetry

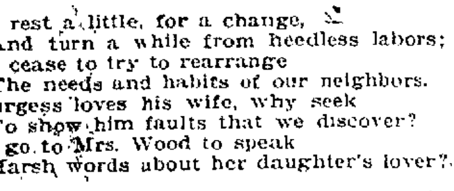
A MUCH-NEEDED VACATION.



Let's rest a little, for a change,
And turn a while from heedless labors;
Let's cease to try to rearrange
The needs and habits of our neighbors.
If Burgess loves his wife, why seek
To show him faults that we discover?
Why go to Mrs. Wood to speak
Harsh words about her daughter's lover?

If Meeker likes the car he drives,
Why tell him that he ought to junk it?
Let's cease to try to change the lives
Of Goss and Reed and Jones and Plunkitt.
They may not think the thoughts we think
They ought to think to win salvation,
But, even so, they may not sink
In everlasting degradation.

The house that Webb is building seems
To lack some things we deem essential.
But why disturb his pleasant dreams?
Our tastes may not be providential.
If Wilkins thinks his faith enough
To make the holy angels bless him,
Why hunt him out and try to stuff
His mind with doubts that may distress him?

The clothes Wright's daughters wear may not
Be what we think they should be wearing,
But why indulge in dismal thought
Or waste a futile moment caring?
Why not decide, just for a change,
To simplify our daily labors
By trying less to rearrange
The wants and duties of our neighbors?

COURTING DISASTER.

(New York Times.)

That candid and courageous republican Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, is honest, according to his inveterate habit. "I would be ashamed," he says, "to go back home and tell the people of Minnesota that I, as their senator, had voted to put a duty of 100 per cent, on the clothes they have to wear in wintertime. It would seem that this duty is fixed on the theory that common folks have no business to wear woolen clothes."

Mr Nelson speaks the rugged words. He understands exactly what the people of Minnesota feel. They are not going to pay, without a kick that the republican party will remember long, for the happiness of Senator Gooding and the other shepherds with a thousand sheep on the Sicullian hills. The shepherds and the manufacturers are few. The wearers are multidulinous. It is hard to understand why the republican tariff makers shouldn't see these facts. It seems as if they courted disaster.

Man Master of His Fate

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

If you are laying in tonics for the mind, in preparation for work and decisions that await you, by no means neglect to get John Foster's "Essay on Decision of Character." This little masterpiece must be nearly a century old now but it is a star in the firmament of useful literature that should never be permitted to set. There ought to be a good pocket edition of it, and perhaps there is one, but the only place where I am sure that you can find the essay is in one of the volumes of Foster's works contained in the old "Bohn library." In my college days Andrew D. White published a pamphlet edition specially for the use of the students of Cornell University. The most weak-willed reader cannot but brace up and feel ashamed of his vacillatin while reading that essay, and if he has any underlying soundness of character the reading will tend to bring it out and put into play.

The greatest service that psychology can render is to show men how to conduct their lives so that each shall attain his highest possibility of usefulness to his fellow men, for that is the only true efficiency and the only source of real happiness. Without decision of character there can be no efficiency and no happiness. Decision is the driving force of concentration, which is the auger that bores the hole through to success.

What is said above about the relation of decision of character to happiness cannot be over emphasized. Foster will picture to you the self-contempt that arises from inability to decide and to choose definitely a course of action, but a student and reader of character once made the thing rise like a monstrous portent before me by a single sentence: "Young man, if you cannot make up your mind God has not use for you!"

We often read that events shape themselves to the wish of the man of strong will and decisive mental grasp, but many take this to be a mere figure of speech intended to encourage the weaker brethren to make at least an effort. But it is no figure of speech; it is a statement of fact.

A man can shape events amazingly by firmly setting his course among them I have sometimes wondered whether this is not the real meaning underlying the enigmatical words of Christ, which He more than once repeated, about the illimitable power of faith. Faith and will—are they not identical in nature? May they not represent a form of energy, not catalogued by physical science? This is not spiritism, though it may be meta-physics.

But without going beyond the range of accepted scientific facts and doctrines, it is not difficult to explain how a decisive character may shape thing to his will. The virtually infinite variety and variability of circumstances furnish the groundwork. The doctrine of evolution is based on the essential mutability underlying all nature. By selection, natural or artificial (i. e., man-made), among the tendencies of nature to vary, the course of things can be changed. Nothing is more subject to variation than the tendencies of the human mind. Acting upon these, a person of strong, decided character may turn the current of habit, custom or preference. In such cases what is foreseen is brought about, the event proves to be the offspring of the will, and volition become creation.

It is a mistake to think that there is only one right decision to be made in a case of doubt. There may be many varying decisions, any one of which, if properly followed up, will lead to a successful issue. The outcome of an enterprise or undertaking is not dependent only upon a single line of proceeding, as fixed and invariable as a positive law. You must, of course, in such a case act upon the broadest possible knowledge of facts and of underlying principles, but there may be several almost equally good ways of meeting and dealing with the crucial difficulties, and success will rather attend the choice that is the most firmly pursued than that which, though in itself better is followed with vacillation of purpose. Every great victory might have been won in some other way. The way chosen, though necessarily good, was probably not the sole good one, but it had a decisive unflinching will behind it.

Believe in yourself, trust in your powers, and make such belief and such trust possible by cultivating the faculty of decision. The most triumphant decision may sometimes be to "bear the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" until will and faith can make you their master.

HERE IS A REMEDY

(American Legion Weekly.)

"Wide open and unguarded stand our gates," recited American school boys of a quarter century ago, when we still had faith in the magic alchemy of the melting-pot. Last year un American law became effective limiting the number of aliens of any one nationality to be admitted to this country in any one year to 3 per cent of the aliens of that nationality resident in the United States in 1910. Faith in the limitless capacity of the melting-pot to transform human dross into golden American citizenship has been destroyed. Today every American who has the welfare of his country at heart knows that immigration is no longer a chimerical menace, but an actual national peril.

This nation, founded upon the principle of absolute equality of citizenship rights, has been diluting its electorate with millions of men whose minds and hearts were molded under forms of government wholly inconsistent with our own, whose lives were cramped and warped by social systems hich did nothing to inculate in them the sense of individual responsibility in government. At the same time, this nation has permitted illiteracy and inadequate education among its native born to make a mockery of the hopes of founders who believed that every ballot could be made intelligent, every voter honest.

We are surfeited with the unassimilated, and with home grown political incompetents who are the products of our own neglect. Meanwhile we continue to Balkanize our take on the political atmosphere of areas in Europe in which humanity has gone to seed. Outside the cities we permit dull peasants to be transformed into machines of flesh and bone to operate our mills and mines. We animalize them—but we give them votes. Under an arduous society, the fit and capable have a law and a declining birth rate. The unfit and incapable are prolific.

The immigration problem of today is one of restoring our national balance. Wisdom impels us to hold a national taking of stock. Common sense argues that weakness cannot be strengthened by added weakness—the addition of vast numbers of new aliens will not solve our problem of the politically and socially unassimilated foreign born. The 3 per cent limitation law is not the remedy. The United States, in all wisdom, should at the earliest moment possible adopt the recommendation of last year's national convention of the American Legion:

Stop all immigration for a period of five years.

A DUKE'S SAD PLIGHT.

(St. Louis Post Dispatch.)

"Because of heavy taxes," says an English dispatch, "the Duke of Richmond and Gordon will sell his Huntley estates, comprising fully 350 excellent farms. He is retaining his estates in Banffshire and Morayshire." One can readily sympathize with the Duke's plight in being down to his last 700 farms, but there is much to be said for a plan of taxation which produces such results.

MIGHTIEST FALL KNOWN

(Detroit News.)

Kaieteur Fall in British Guiana is said to be by far the most powerful waterfall in the world, exceeding both Niagara and Victoria falls by several hundred feet in height.

Kaieteur fall is on the Potaro river, a tributary of the Essequibo. The fall is 741 feet high and in width varies from 120 feet in dry weather to 400 feet in rainy seasons. The river for about 200 yards above the mall is about 400 feet wide and flows noiselessly along, without a ripple, its surface as smooth as a plate glass mirror, until it reaches the rocky ridge, where it bends to a right angle and falls in a perpendicular mass that maintains for a distance of 350 feet its solid appearance, then dissolves into clouds of vapor before reaching the bottom of the abyss, whence rises a thundering, incessant roar.

The fall and the river are surrounded by dense virgin forests, the whole scene being wonderfully imposing.

WHERE THE MONEY IS.

(Wahpeton Globe.

Cream, eggs, poultry, livestock, spuds—a steady income the year around, with a big surplus of grain and hay crops in favorable years, and plenty of feed to keep the herds producing, even in the lean years—that means success, prosperity—at least a comfortable living in the hardest of hard times.

Sure, it is harder work than wheat farming. No question about that, if we still figure in terms of quarter and half section farms. But under that system it doesn't need a half section farm to make a living.

Less land and better farming is what we need. We are commencing to get it, but the process is slow. Let's hustle it up a little.

MARKET REPORTS COSTING BIG SUM

Beside Radio Set State Now Pays For a Leased Wire.

Immense Outlay For Service Duplicating That of Newspapers.

Besides spending several thousand dollars of state funds to install a radio sending and receiving plant at the capitol, which will have to be torn down in a year or two when the old building is demolished, State Agriculture Secretary Leo Stuhr is paying $145 a month for a leased wire over which market reports duplicating those published in the daily newspapers are received.

The radio station will be completed so it can be put to use by the middle of September or possibly before. Two large masts have been put up on the roof of the capitol, with wires running between them. A drop connects with the office of the bureau of markets on the third floor.

Secretary Stuhr announces that market reports coming in over the leased wire and received by wireless will be broadcasted over the state by his plant at certain times of day, and farmers who can take the time to listen in will thereby learn the day's quotations which they could otherwise get by calling their local elevators on the telephone.

Might Serve In Campaign.

Other uses also may be found for the broadcasting apparatus in the bureau of markets. It could be operated, for instance, to send out campaign dope in favor of the code law by virtue of which Secretary Stuhr and a large force of helpers hold their positions and draw thousands of dollars a month in salaries.

Mr. Stuhr has [illegible] or sixty inspectors traveling over the state who [illegible] utilized for scout duty in a campaign. With a small receiving set each of them could get directions by wireless phone from headquarters in Lincoln. If the republican state committee had access to the [illegible] broadcasting station, as it seems to have to the governor's mansion for holding meetings, it could get instructions out to the various county chairmen quickly and without paying long distance telephone or telegraph charges.

When Secretary Stuhr goes in for anything he is not the man to be held back by considerations of expense to the taxpayers. He finds occasion to travel around a good deal both inside Nebraska and more or less frequently to Washington, New York, Chicago and other distant places, on mileage purchased by the state. Mr. Stuhr claims that the taxpayers get the benefit of his journeys and his conscience does not trouble him on that score.

For his own personal use, the head of the agriculture department has purchased sixty-five books of railroad transportation, at $30 each, since the code law went into effect. He has used and accounted for fifty-nine of these, the other six still remaining unreported. The last three were bought on July 27.

Whether Mr. Stuhr still travels on state mileage between Lincoln and his home town of Grand Island, when he goes there on Saturday afternoon and returns Monday morning is not know as he has filed no statement of mileage used since May 21. Prior to that time he had traveled over 10,000 miles between Lincoln and Grand Island on such trips.

The combination of railroad travel, paying for a leased telegraph wire, and installing a costly radio apparatus will account for $10,000 to $15,000 of the agriculture department's expenditures during Mr Stuhr's administration. He has also drawn three years' salary, amounting to $15,000 more.

It cost altogether to run the department of agriculture $330,994 during the fiscal year ended June 30. The cost is not decreasing, as the expenditures during the month of June alone came to $37,602, or at the rate of $446,124 per year.

CAR CONSTRUCTED FOR BOOZE TRADE

Automobile Captured By York Police Is Conveniently Arranged.

YORK Neb., Aug. 7.—A Dodge car was confiscated by Chief of Police Olson and Patrolman John Pollard Saturday and found to contain sixty quarts of bottled in bond Canadian whisky and Gordon famous gin. all according to label, manufactured in London. This is the most whisky brought into York at one time and the largest haul ever made by local police.

Immediately following the arrest of Ben Wescott and Abe Dalevick, both of Columbus, a throng of citizens gathered about to examine the car in front of the station. The roadster must have been built especially for the booze bartering business. The back rest and cushion were undermined and lined with cloth. The capacity of the car is said to be 150 bottles. The seats were so arranged that when the buyer appeared he could be handed a bottle and still not disclose the remainder of the stock. Photographers, newspapermen and curious citizens gathered in a crowd estimated to be 300 to see the only booze haul of any importance ever made in York.

Wescott and Dalevick of Columbus have been regular merchants in York police say, and have disposed of large quantities of the Canadian whisky and Gordons dry gin. It is said that they had this stock disposed of and waiting for their regular patrons to call.

Crap Shooters Are Gathered In By Police of Kearney

(Special to The Star.)

KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 7.—For some time past the police have heard persistent rumors of a pretty stiff game of African golf being operated here, but they failed to get a line on it until Saturday, when a "shorn lamb" whispered his little tale of woe into the official ear. A raid followed. The dice game was located on the fifth floor of the partly completed hotel building. Entrance was gained through the basement. Everything about the premises indicated that at least the fifth floor had been inhabited for some time and the trustees are wondering if it is advisable to press the African golfers for rental past due or prosecute them for trespassing. They have already donated ten and costs each, eight of them, to the police coffers for being caught.

Pick Disposes Of Foundry At York

(Special to The Star.)

YORK, Neb., Aug. 7.—The York Foundry and Engine works has been traded by Charles Pick to M. B. Johnson of Chicago. The York Foundry and Engine works is one of the first business enterprises established in York. Percy Kilner put up the first building in 1871, and at no time has the business been shut down. From one small building it has grown until at this time it covers a plat of ground 120x240 feet. Failing health was the cause of Mr. Pick disposing of the business. Since he has had charge of the foundry shipments have been made to every state west and north of York.

The levy this year is 7.04 mills above the last year's levy, but the decrease in assessed valuation has made the boost necessary. The city assessing board shaved about $16000 from the assessed valuation of the real estate in the corporate limits, although some protest was made by the county equalization board because of the reduction

McAdoo Has An Uncanny Power Over Pack Mule

YOSEMITE, Cal., Aug. 7.—The mule wherewith cartoonists for years had represented the democratic party, is not the only one that is amenable some times to whispers from William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury under President Wilson.

Yesterday Mr. McAdoo, his wife and daughter, were ascending the narrow Tenaya Lake trail on horseback. They met a pack train, headed by a giant specimen of the type that has made Missouri famous and with an apparently unalterable determination not to yield even half of the road to anybody.

The guides pleaded in terms appropriate to the ear of the ladies in the McAdoo party; then descended by easy stages to "mule talk" calculated to move mountains. But not this particular mule.

Mr. McAdoo descended from his saddle. He approached the mule. What mystic democratic password he used, the guides didn't hear and he didn't tell. But the mule stood aside and the party rode on past the pack train and up to the lake, whence they departed from Yosemite by automobile.

Relentless In His Attacks On General Sawyer

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the American legion national rehabilitation committee, has suggested to Brigadier General Charles D. Sawyer President Harding's personal physician, that the president be asked to appoint a committee of physicians to decide the controversy between the general and the legion over hospital care given wounded soldiers.

Colonel Sprague last night made public his letter to General Sawyer, who is chief co-ordinator of the hospitalization board.

The later takes issue with statements made by General Sawyer in reply to previous communications from the legion official, as printed in the congressional record.

FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR VALPARAISO

Earl Latein Killed When He Is Thrown Beneath Automobile.

(Special to The Star.)

VALPARAISO, Neb., Aug. 7.—Earl Latein, 13, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Latein of Valparaiso, received injuries from which he died within a very short time, when he was thrown from an automobile which evidently ran over his side and chest between five and six o'clock Sunday evening.

Earl and others had attended a ball game at Loma, five miles from Valparaiso and returning he was riding on the back end of a racing car driven by Charles Taylor, a mail carrier of this place. One wheel of the car was running on the rim, having blown a tire, and this wheel broke. This caused the car to lurch, throwing Earl beneath.

The youth was rushed to the office of Dr. Spradling in Valparaiso, but lived only a few minutes after reaching here.

Criticises People For Failure to Respond to Call

PEKIN, Aug. 7.—That China's apathy towards the restoration of Shantung, the cradle of her culture and religion and particularly her failure to respond to the appeal for funds to pay Japan for the Shantung railroad, threatens to disgrace the nation, is the keynote of a message issued to his people today by General Wu Pei Fu, original leader of the reunited China movement.

General Wu's message points out that China, by signing the agreement with Japan at Washington for the restoration of Shantung, pledged herself to raise the funds for the redemption of the railway by popular subscription.

He declared that the nation had been unresponsive to the call to duty and faced humiliation if it failed to provide the necessary funds.

Make Effort to Learn Who Placed Poison In Sugar

LANARK, Aug. 7—Efforts were being made today to learn the identity of blackmailers who placed poison in the food of Dr. W. T. Stattler, veterinary surgeon, and his wife, after an effort had been made to extort money from him. Both were in a critical condition today having been taken violently ill last night after eating the evening meal.

Dr. Statiler revealed that he had received several threatening letters during the last five weeks, demanding that he place $5,000 in a designated place. Both he and his wife were warned that they would be poisoned if they failed to pay the money.

The warning stated that if poison failed to kill them their home would be dynamited or their 6-year-old son kidnaped.

Arsenic placed in the sugar was the poison used.

Movie Star Has Narrow Escape From Bad Hurt

VICTOR, Idaho, Aug. 7.—But for her presence of mind, Mary Miles Minter might have suffered serious disfigurement at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon when she was thrown against a window in vestibule of her private railroad car by the jar of a switch engine at this point.

Throwing up her arms, the petite blond star of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation escaped with a severe cut on her left arm and numerous scratches and bruises about her body.

Tom Moore, who, with Miss Minter, takes a leading part in "The Cowboy and the Lady," received severe bruises about the head; Patricia Palmer sustained injuries to her back and possible internal injury, and Viola Daniels was also considerably bruised. All of the twenty?five in the party were badly shaken up.

The accident is believed due to the mistake of the engineer of the switch engine who thought he was backing into a "Y" for the purpose of turning around. The actors were waiting to start their rail journey to Los Angeles, after spending six weeks in Jackson Hole taking scenes for the film.

OVER EMPHASIZE MATERIAL THINGS

J. Stitt Wilson Says Attitude Toward Property Main Issue.

Record Crowd of 3,000 Encamped at Nebraska Epworth Assembly.

Nearly 5,000 people met at the auditorium at Epworth Lake park Sunday night to hear J. Stitt Wilson, of Berkeley, Cal., deliver an address on, "The Supreme Christian Issue of Modern Times," in which the speaker named the world's property interests as being the cause of the world's ills.

"People can be Christians," Mr. Wilson declared in the course of his address," and yet not be enlightened as to their duties as Christians. The supreme issue before Christianity today is the fairer use of the institutions of property."

Mr. Wilson showed how most of the world's wars were directly traceable to property interests, and said that the world war was an example of an industrial Germany battling against an industrial England, and that the struggle was inevitable.

The coal strike and railroad strike which at the present time is menacing the prosperity of this country, Mr. Wilson declared, is due to property interests.

"It is the business of the railroad executives and the mine operators to inquire deeply whether there is not a more just way of operating the railroads and the mines," Mr. Wilson said.

"The I. W. W's." Mr. Wilson declared, "are the grownup demonstrations of America's neglect of childhood."

"I don't believe that there is an organization in the world." the speaker asserted, "that can help America as much to solve the serious problems as the Methodist church."

In concluding, Mr. Wilson declared that the world could be saved if people would love more the spirit of God, and if this spirit would influence their actions toward their fellowmen.

Not One Accident.

Not a single accident or a single case of sickness has occurred to mar the annual Epworth assembly's encampment, E. M. Avery. treasurer, declared Sunday night.

"This is a remarkable showing," said Mr. Avery, "when one considers the fact the encampment is really a small city in itself. There are now 200 tents housing on the average of seven people each. Then there are seventy-five cottages housing as ten each. Altogether there are about 3,000 people encamped at Epworth Lake park. From a health standpoint, things are perfect."

Sunday morning, Bishop Charles Wesley Burns occupied the pulpit and preached to a record crowd at the auditorium. At 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Dr. Loren Edwards delivered the afternoon sermon. A quartet composed of Omaha business men, sang a number of selections.

Walsh to Attack Hides Provision In Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, who is to lead the democratic opposition in the duty of hides, which will be considered by the senate this week, declared in a statement that the effect of this duty would be the destruction of the 700 independent tanning establishments over the country and the extension of the packer's monopoly of the tanning industry.

"A vote for a duty on hides is a vote for the packers and a vote against the interest and prosperity of the tanners, boot and shoe, and leather industries as heretofore conducted, and an invitation to the packers to exploit, crush and destroy numerous small and independent industries, competing with each other in the tanning of hides, the manufacturer of leather products," said Senator Walsh.

Balloons Take Air In Race For the Bennett Trophy

GENEVA, Aug. 7.—The balloonists competing for the Gordon Bennett trophy from the ground Sunday in the presence of 50,000 spectators and with favorable weather conditions. All the balloons took the direction of South Germany, but it is thought when they reach a high altitude, they were driven southeastward toward Constantinople. The American balloonists were given on ovation as they rose in the air, by a large contingent of American visitors in the grand stand.

Experts believe there will be no landings reported inside of forty-eight hours.

Chicago Strike On Surface Lines Is Finally Settled

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Miss Chicago, who last week bumped along on motor trucks and busses getting to work, was riding a street car or "L" train to business today, same as usual. The street car strike was settled and all cars running this morning and she again arched a well plucked eyebrow at anything less than a limousine.

The street car strike cost the employes nearly $700,000 in wages; it cast the public about $2,000,000 in excess fares, and down town Chicago business about $5,000,000.

FATE OF GERMANY HANGS IN BALANCE

Future Of Nation Depends on Outcome of Conference at London.

Interallied Confab, 13th Since Versailles Treaty Signed Opens Sessions.

(International News Service.)

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The thirteenth interallied conference since the treaty of Versailles was signed, opened today with every possibility that it would decide the future fate of Europe. Upon the outcome hangs future Anglo-French concord and the possibility of Germany being dragged back from the verge of bankruptcy. The United States is not represented.

At 11:45 a. m. the session adjourned until 4:30 o'clock. A communique said there had been only preliminary discussions. It was learned, however, that Premier Lloyd-George spoke in favor of an indemnity moratorium for Germany. His view point is said to have been supported by the Italians, Belgians and Japanese.

Premier Poincare of France refused to state the French policy until Premier Lloyd-George announced the British policy.

A tense situation is alreday reported to have arisen in the conference due to French opposition to a moratorium unless certain drastic conditions were obeqed by Germany. The French premier at first appeared to be uncompromising, but when he saw a solid front arrayed against him in favor of the moratorium he proceeded to lay down stiff conditions upon which France might agree.

Session Called to Order.

The first session was formally called to order at a few minutes after 11 o'clock in the cabinet room at No. 10 Downing street. The premier's residence, and in fact, all of Downing street was under heavy guard by uniformed police and secret service agents.

The heads of the various delegations were:

British—Premier Lloyd-George.
French—Premier Poincare.
Italian—Foreign Minister Sanchzer.
Belgian—M Jaspar.

Viscount Ishii, Japanese ambassador to France, represented his government.

Premier Lloyd-George of Great Britian will lead a vigorous attempt to settle the German indemnity issue for all times. The English premier is optimistic over the result, but this optimism is not widely shared. Other British officials fear a deadlock, with France, insisting on the right of independent action against Germany to enforce her demands.

FIRPO LOOMS BIG IN FISTIC SPORT

Argentine Husky Has Goods, But Needs Smart Tutor Such as Corbett.

BY FRANK G. MENKE
(Copyright 1922 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

This Luis Firpo person continues to be more or less the unknown quantity of the prize ring.

Beyond conceding the fact that he can sock with all the power of Jack Dempsey, the wise men of the prize ring say he's a terribly crude person. But each adds:

"If he's trained by a master for a year or two there's no telling what he might accomplish."

Firpo came from out of the Argentine eight months or so ago—an unknown. He claimed the heavyweight championship of South America, which no one disputed—and which meant nothing. For, as far as was known, South America didn't have two fighters who could last two rounds as sparring partners for a third rate American heavy.

Yet there was something about Firpo's makeup which seemed to shriek "fighter." He's of ideal build for a heavyweight.

Burly and Powerful.

He is big and powerful of body, notching well beyond six feet. He beams around 215. His head is set on his shoulders. His chin has the natural protection of his chest. His arms are long and powerful and his hands, big boned and huge, are beautifully formed for clubbing purposes.

There is litheness and grace in the movement of Firpo outside the ring, which is reminiscent of a tiger. His movements are free, smooth, powerful and fast.

Yet in the ring he has been a slew foot. Master boxers claim it's all because his intense eagerness to score a knockout prompts him to set himself in a fashion which is awkward and clumsy. They assert that if he were taught to box—to use his feet—he might develop into a shiftier proposition than Dempsey himself.

Footwork Not in Pepertoire.

But so far Firpo has shown the American boxing public nothing but leaden feet. He is flat-footed most of the time, with feet riveted to the floor. He can't get out of the way of the other fellow's rush .

Likewise, a jabbing person can pop him at will. His defensive cannot be dignified by such a word. For he is crude and green to an extreme in blocking with his arms, knows little about ducking and less about sidestepping.

If he ever heard the word "feint" he'd think it meant a sinking spell into unconsciousness.

Lugs a Nasty Wallop.

But that bird can sock—my, oh, my, how he can sock! Yet he needs a lot of teaching in the art of marksmanship. His left hand is only about 20 per cent efficient; his right, as far as the timing and delivery of punches are concerned, could stand 50 per cent improvement. For Firpo misses five shots out of six, owing to telegraphy and a few kindred faults.

He might have improved his shining hours in the U. S. A. by taking some lessons in the art of boxing. But he didn't. For Firpo came to this country suspicious and distrustful about everything in it and about it.

He managed himself. He got three fights and knocked out his three dub foemen—Sailor Maxted, Joe McCann and Jack Herman. It was about a half hour before they revived Herman.

Home Folks Rather Chesty.

And then Firpo sailed back to the Argentine to gather in the plaudits of the home town folks, who have connected with the idea that, by whipping three obscure American fighters, he has become a great ringman—oh, infinitely greater—than Jack Dempsey.

Firpo plans to return in the golden autumn time. He has the idea that he'll then be ready—made so by homeland worship—to beat up Bill Brennan, Fred Fulton, Harry Wills and Dempsey—perhaps all in the same night.

He could—if the boys simply would start off the proceedings by sticking out their chins and letting him take one shot at it. For Firpo can sock—yes, indeed he can do that very thing in extremely deft fashion.

Chance for Jim Corbett.

But those American boys are not constituted quite that way. Their method is to keep their chins covered and do some socking themselves. And if they are tossed into a ring with Firpo—as Firpo is today, crude and just about the same sort of prospect as was Jim Jeffries in 1896—any one is quite likely to annihilate the pride of the Argentine, in about two rounds of fighting.

But if Firpo were to put himself under the tutorship of some old ring general—Jim Corbett, Kid McCoy, or some of the others—and absorb their teachings for six months or a year, then all might be different.

For Firpo can sock with power unlike anyone has shown beyond Dempsey. And that, in itself, is the foundation upon which can be built a world's championship.

Elliott Lowers Gasoline Record On Coast Track

COTATI, Cal., Aug. 7.—Frank Elliott set a new world's record for fifty miles on a board speedway here yesterday when he won the Cotati sprint race in 25 minutes 29 and 72-100 seconds. Elliott made an average speed of 117 1-2 miles an hour. Tommy Milton was second and Eddie Hearne third.

Elliott also won the 100-mile race in 43 minutes. His average speed was 113 1-2 miles an hour. Early in the race, he overcame the lead of Jimmy Murphy, who was forced to make three tire changes. Driving the entire race without a change, he crossed the finish line with Milton a close second.

The former record for fifty miles was held by Ralph DePalma, veteran Italian pilot. He made the mark at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y. on June 14, 1919, when he negotiated the distance in 26 minutes, 23 and 41-100 seconds.

Jerry Wonderlich was fourth, Bennett Hill fifth and Art Klein sixth, Al Melchoir was in seventh place and Harry Hartz was eighth.

Jimmy Murphy, while in the lead at an average of 119 miles an hour, was forced to drop out in the nineteenth lap with a stripped tire, the rubber of which jammed his brake band.

Leonard Calls Off Bouts; Tooth Loose From Hammer Hook

(Associated Press.)

MICHIGAN CITY Ind., Aug. 7.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, departed for New York Sunday with $20,000 in his pockets, but with a new dental bill to pay as a result of his ten-round championship match with Ever Hammer the Chicago lightweight, in Floyd Fitzsimmons arena here Saturday night.

The champion was suffering from a bruised and split chin as a result of having another tooth loosened in the front of his mouth. In his match with Lew Tendler ten days ago, Leonard lost a front pivot tooth and the gums were sore as a result of the efforts to extract the roots. Hammer loosened an adjoining molar Saturday with a sharp left hook, so that the tooth, instead of pointing downward, was knocked sidewise. Two dental surgeons operated Saturday night in an attempt to save it.

Leonard will not engage in any more contests until after his return from Europe late in October. He had two matches pending, one with Joe Tiplitz in Philadelphia and another in Milwaukee, but called off all negotiations Saturday night.

Billy Gibson, manager of the titleholder, asserted that he wanted to call off the Hammer match Thursday when he saw it would be impossible to do any boxing in training. The champion, however, insisted upon protecting Promoter Fitzsimmons, who has gone to heavy expenses, and refused the advice of his handlers not to engage in the contest.

The Irish resolution spoke of the "unhappy division of the Irish people and suggested that members of the order refrain from obstruding our opinions of criticisms lest the harsh discord be transmitted to our side of the ocean."

The other resolution declared that the Ku Klux Klan challenge to our Catholic citizenship should be opposed by aggressive, intellectual power;" and urged organization of all Irish American Catholics.

USED FUNNY STUFF ON HURLER GREGG

Nick Altrock Pulled Comedy On Pitcher and Senators Won the Ball Game.

Nick Altrock didn't hire out with the Washington Senators as a baseball comedian. Rather, he became one by accident ten years ago in the heat of a diamond duel in Cleveland

The southpaw, who was a world series star for the Chicago White Sox in 1906, was shunted off to the minors a few years later. He drifted into Minneapolis, but a lame hip in 1912 handicapped him so much that he was unconditionally released.

Just about that time the Senators were floundering around and Clarke Griffith, much in the way that a drowning man grabs at a straw, signed up Altrock. He perhaps figured that Nick had a few good games left in the war-worn flipper and that Nick might be useful as a coach of fledgeling flingers.

"Report to team at Cleveland" wired Griffith to Altrock.

And Nick did.

Used His Stuff on Gregg.

That afternoon Vean Gregg, working on the mound for Cleveland, was in rare form. For four innings, the Senators couldn't even foul off a ball All of which peeved and fretted Griffith, who, looking for some one to vent his venom upon, noticed Altrock, sitting at the other end of the bench

"Hey, what did I hire you for, anyway?" demanded Griffith, glaring at the innocent Altrock.

"Doggone me if I know," retorted Altrock. "But if you'll let me loose on that third base coaching line I may be able to earn my pay. I've got a new coaching idea."

"Then get out there and earn your pay," commanded Griff.

Telling about it afterward, Altrock said:

"The main thought I had was to rattle Gregg to a point where our boys could find the baseballs he was tossing up to them. I figured if I could get him laughing I could turn the trick.

Got His Cue at Movies.

"Now only a few days before I had gone to the movies and seen one of the champions shadow boxing. When I got outside the place there were three kids in the middle of the sidewalk trying to imitate the shadow boxing. It struck me as about the funniest thing I'd ever looked at.

"So as soon as I hit the coaching line I figured that if the shadow boxing of those kids could give me a rib-hurting bunch of chuckles, I might be able to make Gregg laugh and so spoil his effectiveness if I put on an act like that. And so immediately I began the stuff.

"The crowd was first to see me clowning as a boxer. At first it didn't know what it was all about. But soon the stands began to rock with giggles. Eventually, Gregg, hearing the laughs, looked around just in time to see me in a furious mixup with a very tough imaginary foeman.

Put Gregg to the Bad.

"Gregg grinned—and then pitched a bad one. When the return was made to him, he looked at me, just in time to see me land a stiff uppercut and two straight lefts. He just stood there and laughed at me until the catcher yelled to him to 'get busy.' Then he pitched another wild one.

"The next time Gregg looked my way I put over the knockout punch, finishing up my opponent by kicking him in his imaginary ribs and then jumping upon his imaginary hide. Whereupon, Gregg forgot all about baseball and laughed until the tears came to his eyes.

"From then on it was soft for us. Gregg's effectiveness was gone. He was laughing too much to have control and just chuckled his team out of the game for we came from behind and nosed out the Indians.

"That night Griff looked me up and said:

"'Now I know what I hired you for—comedy stuff. that's it. You're the official clown hereafter.' And that's what I've been for ten full years—and more."

President Li Yuan Hung yasterday attempteed his second reorganization of the cabinet on progressive lines and a second time offered the premiership to a supporter of Sun Yat Sen.

NEBRASKA TENNIS STARS COMPETE IN STATE TOURNAMENT

NEBRASKA TENNIS MEN IN TOURNEY

Racquet Expects in Lincoln Today to Compete for State Laurels.

The Nebraska state tennis tournament, held under the auspices of the Nebraska State Tennis association and the University of Nebraska, opened in Lincoln today with an entry list of more than 65. The tournament will be played on 28 university courts, the largest lawn tennis layout in the central west.

Drawings for matches were begun at noon and the first round was scheduled to start at 2 p. m.

Contrary to the first expectations of the tournament management, Ralph Powell, state champion in singles and a resident of Omaha, showed up with the Omaha aggregation of nine entries and will play in both singles and doubles. In the latter class he is paired with George Stocking, a player of exceptional ability.

At noon representation in the tournament, by cities, was as follows: Lincoln, 22; Omaha, 9; Milford, 4; Norfolk, 5; Seward, 5; North Bend, 4; Plattsmouth, 3; Holdrege, Hastings, Araphoe, Doniphan and Walthill, 2 each; Springfield, 3; Minden, Orleans, York, West Point, Red Cloud, Wilcox and Alliance, 1 each.

Best Tennis Talent in State.

Prominent among the players in attendance are Powell, Stocking and Schirbner of Omaha; McProud, Weaverling and Elliott of Lincoln; Giesen of Seward, Durland of Norfolk, the Pattersons of Araphoe; Matthewson and Langenberg of Walthill, the Scudders of Doniphan, Christensen of Springfield, McMichael of Minden, Smith of Orleans, Calvert of Plattsmouth, Ellig and Skalberg of Holdrege and Staley and Newman of Hastings.

Tennis critics here believe that Powell will have a struggle to retain his title as singles champion, as he has taken on considerable weight since the last tournament and may not be in prime physical condition.

Reverend John Calvert of Plattsmouth is the official in charge of the games.

RICHARDS NOT ONE OF CUP DEFENDERS

Committee Has About Decided to Pick Team Which Won Davis Cup Last Year.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—In spite of the fact that plans have been made to have the personnel of the Davis cup team known by Thursday, it is a matter of common knowledge that the selection committee is no nearer a definite decision now than it was six months ago. Then, as always, it knew that William T Tilden and William M. Johnston would be two of the nominees. That was as certain as sin itself.

However, it was no less certain that the choice of the men to complete the four-man team lay among R. Norris Williams, Watson Washburn and Vincent Richards. It still lies among them.

There is, according to reports, a rather definite leaning toward Williams and Washburn on the part of the committee.

Washburn the Old Reliable.

Purely as a man-to-man proposition, there could be no question of a choice between Richards and Washburn. The latter is as steady as an old family horse but he is far from brilliant, even in his most inspired moments.

Richards, on the other hand, has had one of his greatest seasons and has beaten such men as Wallace Johnson, Zenzo Shimidzu and Francis T. Hunter, who disposed of Gerald Patterson as late as last week. However, brilliance is not always a prime essential of doubles play.

It seems to feel that the greater experience of Williams and Washburn, the 1921 doubles pair, is needed in the impending series.

Stars at Meadow Club.

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug 7.—Beginning another test preparatory to the national championships, ranking American tennis stars will meet today in the first round of the annual invitation tournament of the Meadow club at Southampton, N. Y.

Although William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston, who are expected to represent America in the singles of the Davis club challenge round, and the members of the French and Australian international teams will not participate, the entry list includes most of the other leading players.

Prominent on the list are Vincent Richards winner of the singles cup in 1920, and Willis E. Davis of San Francisco, who defeated Richards in the finals last year. California has several additional stars entered, including Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco and Phil Neer and James Davies of Leland Stanford, inter-collegiate doubles champions, Zeno Shimidzu, S. Kasno and Frank T. Hunter, recent conqueror of Gerald Patterson, are also entered.

Women's tournament activity meanwhile shifts to Glencove, N. Y., where feminine experts will meet in the opening round of the Nassau County club's tournament today. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Miss Leslie Bancroft and Miss Helen Wills are leading entries.

Crete Wins From Friend.

(Special to The Star.)

WILBER, Neb., Aug. 7.—The Crete and Friend ball clubs clashed here Friday as one of the features of the Wilber picnic, Crete winning, 8 to 5. Lowrey's home run in the eighth inning, with two runners on the bases, iced the victory for Crete.

THE ? BOX

Q.: Bases full, with two out. Catcher misses third strike on batter and then throws wildly to first. Batter safe at first and two runs score. Do the runs count?—S. L., Harvard, Neb.

A.: Runs count, of course. With one or none out and runner on first, batter out on third strike even if catcher fails to hold the last strike. This rule, however, does not apply with two out.

Q.: During dispute in game in Saunders county league game, umpire-in-chief called on pitcher to pitch. Pitcher did not have the ball in his possesesion, as ball was held by another player. Umpire called four balls in succession and awarded batter free pass to first. Has the umpire the authority to make a ruling of that sort, or should he give the team in the field five minutes' time and then award the game on forfeit?—M. J. H., Prague, Neb.

A.: Umpire has right, under the rules, to exact penalty when the pitcher refuse to pitch. He may call a ball every twenty seconds. See Sec. 2 Rule 33. In case the umpire called on pitcher to pitch, while another player held the ball, umpire justified in exacting penalty. From your statement of the facts, team in the field evidently guilty of tactics designed to delay the game. Under Sec. 4, Rule 26, umpire might have forfeited the game without further parley.

Q.: With runner on base, batter hits a foul. Does the rule require batter to step outside of his box in order to give the runner time to return to base? In case pitcher delivers ball to batter without waiting for runner to return to base, folllowing foul ball, can the runner be declared out—LINCOLN FAN.

A.: The common practice by batters of stepping out of box, following a foul ball, to enable runner to return to base, is not required by the rules. The pitcher should wait until runner has returned to base. Should he pitch without thus waiting for runner to return to base, batter may hit and runner may advance.

Touching the Bases.

George Herman Ruth and the Yanks killed another famous jinx by climbing aboard Pillette of the Tigers for an 11 to 6 victory. Pillette had previously made Ruth and the entire team look goofy on several occasions, but the Babe hit him for a double and a single and smashed his twentieth homer of the season off Johnson, who succeeded Pillette.

A six-run rally in the fourth, in which Grimes was induced to forsake the premises rather hurriedly, enabled the Reds to beat the Dodgers, 6 to 3.

The Giants worked earnestly and hard for seven innings to overcome the two-run lead of the Cubs, only to see the Cubs all but commit mayhem on Jess Barnes in the tenth for a matter of eight runs. Score, 10 to 3.

Down went the White Sox for the fifth straight time, the Athletics gaining the verdict when Courtney folded up after fanning five in the first three innings.

Inspired by Johnny Tobin's two homers, the Browns gave Walter Johnson the highly beneficial air in two and two-thirds innings and headed the Senators at the finish, 8 to 4.

The Red Sox carried the Indians to twelve innings to lose, 3 to 2. The Sox got away running against Coveleskie, scoring two runs, then none thereafter. Speaker tied the score in the eighth with a home run off Quinn.

BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 7.—Pitcher E. Duff of the Mitchell team of the Dakota league has been sold to the Chicago White Sox for $1,500 to join them at the end of the season, Manager Scharnweber of Mitchell announced Sunday. Ruff has turned in thirteen victories during the season, with but two defeats. He is a right-hander.

Batteries—Closman and Murphy; Zink and Shestak.

Turmoil in Game at Friend.

FRIEND, Neb., Aug. 7.—The Geneva-Friend game here Sunday broke up in a row, Umpire Graves of Hebron declaring the game forfeited to Friend, 9 to 0, when the Geneva team quit the field during the seventh inning, with Friend at bat and the score standing 3 to 3. Geneva objected to a decision at first in which the umpire declared a Friend batter safe. During the subsequent argument, a Friend runner scored from third and tied up the score. Score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.
Friend	0 1 1 0 0 0 1—	3	3	3

Friend will play the Fairbury State leaguers here next Wednesday afternoon. The Fairbury management has advanced the Wednesday game with Norfolk to the forenoon.

LEGION COPS IN TWELVE INNINGS

Service Team Defeats Knights—Printers Take Measure of College View.

The American Legion baseball team retained its lead in the Capital City league when the service men defeated the Knights of Columbus nine by the score of 5 to 1 in a twelve-inning contest at the Rock Island park Sunday afternoon. The Lincoln Printers outscored the College View team in the initial game of the twin bill, 4 to 1. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed a pair of contests that could not be contradicted as being excellent exhibitions of the national game from the amateur standpoint.

The Printers registered a one-run lead in the first frame of the opening game but the College View athletes evened the count in the second when Tschauder tripled and scored on Lloyd's wild pitch. During the remainder of the game the College View nine could not solve Lloyd's curves and were contented with Tschauder's lone tally. The Printers bunched hits off Anderson in the sixth and eight innings and, aided with a pair of errors, collected one and two tallies respectively for a final count of 4 to 1.

The Legion-K. C. contest was a pitchers' duel between Peters and Leo Smith. The two pitchers broke about even in the hits and strikeout list until the twelfth frame, when Smith weakened and allowed a pair of singles and a walk to choke the bases. Hansen, pinch-hitting for Crandall, broke up the game when he singled to right, and scored Smith and Cameron. Hudson scored on Gleason's error and Hansen chalked up the final counter when Smith heaved a wild pitch.

The Legionnaires, ranking first in the percentage table with a clean sweep of victories in the Capital City league race, must defeat the Lawlor Sports and the Printers in order to clinch the pennant. The Lawlors and Printers are tied for second, each with one defeat to date. The Sunday scores:

SPRANGER'S BLOW BREAKS UP GAME

Screeching Hit By Lincoln Shortstop Scores McCoy With Deciding Run.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

The Links and the Hastings Cubs got down to real business Sunday afternoon at Landis Field, cutting out the clownish baseball on display the previous day and staging a thrilling, snappy exhibition of the national diversion, in which the home athletes were triumphant, 2 to 1.

With the score knotted at 1 to 1 and McCoy perched on third base in the ninth frame, Shortstop Kibble Spranger broke up the ball game by smashing a screeching liner toward the last corner of the diamond. The drive all but tore loose the flippers of Witt, Hastings third-sacker, and when the ball bounced toward left field, McCoy swarmed to the home station with the game-deciding run of the day.

Crann and Bool In Spotlight.

A spectacular catch by Crann of Hastings in deep center field and a marvelous throw by Bool of Lincoln cutting down a Hastings runner at the plate, were the fielding features of one of the most exciting diamond battles staged this season at Landis yard.

Ken Scott was on the slab for the Links and the future St. Louis Cardinal star, hurling his first game in more than two weeks, fairly and decisively outpitched his Hastings rival, Swede Peterson. Scott held the enemy to seven scattered hits and whiffed six, while Peterson was warmed for ten blows and fanned three.

Dye Scores First Run.

Bad luck, mixed in with occasional misjudgment on the bases, balked the Links in scoring on Peterson in several innings. Twice the Links were in sight of scores, only to be cut down on double plays by the Cubs. The first break manifested itself in the sixth frame, when, with one down, Scott Dye hoisted a Texas leaguer to left and sprinted to second. Conkey's whistling liner to center counted Dye's run, the first of the day.

Scott smothereed the Cubs all the way to the fifth, when the visitors filed a threatening bid for a run. Witt struck out, but Griffin singled and rambled around to third on errors by Carr and Conkey. Echtemeyer groundered to Dye and Griffin was cut down at the plate.

Cubs Tie It Up.

One measly single by the Cubs was sufficient to tie up the score in the eighth. Echtermeyer flied to Sarvis in center, but Willetts walked on four balls, moved to second on Peterson's grounder to Dye and crossed the plate when Crann soaked a single to right field.

The Cubs gave Lincoln supporters a big scare in the ninth. Tomes groundered to McCoy for the first out, after which Srb and Witt connected for singles. Griffin hit a bouncer to Spranger, who exuded a bum heave to Dye, trying for a force-out at second, and all hands were safe. Echtedmeyer hoisted a fly to Bool whose lines heave to Conkey at the plate nailed Srb with yards to spare.

All Off in the Ninth.

The Links nailed the ball game in their slice of the ninth. McCoy started it with a line single to center and Sarvis sacrificed Scott, with two clean hits previously to his credit. hoisted a long fly to Crann, and McCoy, following the catch, fled to third. Spranger then came through with the hit which clinched victory for the Beltzer clan.

Ducky Holmes and his league-leading Beatrice Blues invaded Lincoln Monday for a three-game series at Landis Field. Sunday's official statistics:

BREAK IN TWIN STRIKES CLOSE, IS PREDICTION

Expected Present Week Will See Relief From Paralyzing Tieups.

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—In the face of industrial conditions that are daily becoming more alarming, administration officials predicted today that this week, the eighteenth of the coal strike and the sixth of the rail strike, will see breaks toward relief in both tieups.

In what direction the breaks may be expected—whether relief will be afforded by establishment of peace between employers and employes, or whether the government in order to protect the public, will be compelled to assume partial direction of vital ly essential production of fuel and transportation—no officials were prepared today to say.

But in all government quarters in touch with conditions, the beliefs predominated that the new week will bring relief.

In the coal strike, Washington looked toward Cleveland today, where a joint conference of striking miners and operators was convening to try for peace by mutal agreement. In the rail strike, which the administration regards as the key to the whole chaotic situation, all eyes were turned toward the white house, where President Harding is once more in personal charge of relief negotiations.

White House Step Impending.

The belief prevailed that an important white step is impending, and will be announced either late today or after tomorrow's cabinet meeting.

B. M. Jewell, director of the railway shopmen's strike and his associates, remained over in the capital today in anticipation of a renewed call for conference from the president.

Legislative agents of the "Big Four" brotherhoods, who have threatened a progressive suspension of operations if the shopmen's strike is not speedily settled, likewise remained over with the expectation that something will shortly be forthcoming from Mr. Harding.

Walkout of Enginemen.

Unless a relief move of some sort is forthcoming spokesmen for the brotherhoods asserted today there will be a progressive walkout of locomotive engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen this week.

It will not be a sympathetic strike, they hastened to assure inquirers, but mechanical condition of the road has now reached the point, they asserted, where individual engineers and operatives will be allowed to "lay off" because of the unsafe condition of equipment.

The decision as to when working conditions become dangerous and intolerable, it was said, will be left in a large degree to the individual enginemen.

Meanwhile the senate promised to concern itself today with the controversial question of whether railroad rolling stock is in a deplorably dangerous condition. Under an unanimous consent agreement the senate was expected to take up and pass the Harrison-King resolution, calling on the interstate commerce commission for an immediate report on the present condition of motive power throughout the country.

BLOCKS MOVE TO PROBE CHARGES

Smoot Refuses to Permit Resolution to Come Before U. S. Senate.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. — Efforts to bring up the Harrison resolution, proposing an investigation of charges that American government officials sought to have Cuban sugar producers curtail their crop this year in return for a reduced tariff duty on sugar, were blocked today in the senate by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah.

Senator Harrison asked unanimous consent to call up the resolution, but Senator Smoot objected and then Senator Nicholson, republican, Colorado, made a motion that the sugar schedule be laid aside until there had been a investigation. A point of order by Senator Smoot that this motion was out of order was upheld by Senator Cummins ,republican, Iowa, who was presiding.

Senator Nicholson declared that "very serious charges" had been made in articles read to the senate aSturday by Senator Harrison and that he felt the senate should not proceed with the consideration of the sugar schedule until there had been an investigation.

Senator Smoot said he wanted the senate and the country to know that this propaganda that has been spread from one end of the country to the other is a continuation of the fight against domestic sugar producers b the sugar refiners."

Agreement In Effect.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. — An agreement under which amendments to the more important sections of the tariff bill are to be disposed of before the close of the week was in effect today when the senate settled down to its job again. Although it had been found impossible in the struggle last week to formulate a successful program for fixing a definite date for disposing of the bill itself, the agreement finally evolved Saturday, it was hoped, would expedite matters so a final vote could be had before September 1.

Smoot Declares People Gouged By Sugar Refiners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Seven groups of American refiners, aided by Wall street financiers, are attempting to control the Cuban sugar industry and destroy all competition from American sugar growers, Senator Smoot of Utah, republican, charged today in the senate.

These American refiners, he said, have extracted $600,000,000 from the American public in unconscienable profits during 1920 and part of 1921.

Daring Robbery At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 7. — In full view of hundreds of pedestrians, a young bandit today snatched a satchel containing $1,300 from the hands of Miss Louise Harvey, 20, cashier of the Rossman Clothing company, at a downtown corner and escaped. She was on the way to a bank.

LIVE LONGER IN SUNFLOWER STATE

Kansas People Average Older Than Elsewhere, Census Bureau Figures Show.

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—People live longer in Kansas than in any other state in the union, accordnig to new statistics made public today by the commerce department.

The expectation of live at birth in Kansas is 59.73 for white males and 60.89 for white females. The average for the United States is 55.23 for men and 57.41 for women.

The life tables upon which the department based its figures were compiled from the 1920 census, covering 74 per cent of the total population of the country.

As a standard of comparison for the expectation of life estimates, the department cites the figures for females in the county of West Sussex, England, which were 63.05 in 1911 and 1912. This figure wa sthe highest ever published officially in any country.

Washington, D. C. outranks all others of 14 large cities with 59.83 for white females,. Pittsburgh comes at the foot of the list with 47.16 years for white males and 50.52 for white females.

"For these males who have reached the age of 32," the department stated "the expectation of life is 34.93 years, and for those who have reached the age of 62 it is 13.38. For white females is 36.12 at the age of 32 and 14.01 at the age of 62."

Th etables show marked improvement in mortailty conditions among all classes between 1910 and 1920 except at certain ages between 17 and 32, these exceptions being due to the influenza epidemic.

The irregulars traveled by boat Cork to Liverpool and thence here, intending to isolate the city by destroying the bridges, roads, railway and other means of communication.

The irregulars were operating in parties of from a half dozen to thirty at various points in both the northern and southern suburbs. The materials captured by the nationals, including six automobiles which the irregulars had commandeered, and a number of land mines and grenades, together with rifles, revolvers, engineering equipments and munitions.

To Investigate Crawford Fire

On the request of an attorney at Crawford, the state fire marshal's office will send an investigator to that place to look into a fire which had threatened a business building on August 3. The blaze was extinguished with little damage. Inflammable material was scattered around, it is reported and a lighted candle was found in a closet with kerosene-soaked paper near it, according to the information received by the fire marshal.

Crawford citizens think someone started the fire for spite work. The owner, J. O. Bergman, was in Casper, Wyo., at the time. The insurance was not excessive and was payable to a mortgagee. Henry Sutton a baker, had occupied the building up to a month ago, when he moved out with most of his goods, but a few things had been left behind, the fire marshal was advised.

Use Old Schoolhouse Till New One Ready

State Fire Marshal Hartford will grant the request of the board of education at Miller, Buffalo county, for permission to use the old schoolhouse there, which was condemned some time ago, until a new edifice now under construction is finished. The new building is to cost $35,000 and will be ready for occupancy about December 1. Hartford had made an order forbidding the use of the old building after the close of the last school year, but he will modify it as requested by E. D. Moon and A. N. Bliss, school board officers, so that school may be held there up to the time the new structure is available.

GERMANY'S HAND TURNED FACE UP

Cards Are All On Table Chancellor Wirth Tells Leading Diplomat.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—International News Service tonight is able to reveal Chancellor Wirth's position on the indemnity issue as told in his own words to an allied diplomat at the height of the present crisis.

"Germany has no double bookkeeping, one for herself and one for the allies," he said. "Our cards are all on the table, so that all the world can see them.

"Under the treaty of Versailles, reparation payments take precedence over all other obligations. We have asked for a moratorium on those payments. While we are waiting for an answer there has suddenly come from the French a demand for a clearing, which is entirely separate and independent of reparations. We must know where we stand on the indemnity moratorium before we can survey our own situation.

"The terrific rise in prices has begun. They will take on unprecendented proportions and increase the already widespread hunger and misery and intensify the bitterness that already exists between the classes.

Must Import Food.

"One-third of the population has to be sustained on imported foodstuffs. What these imports cost can be imagined when it is remembered that the German mark today is worth only a 200th of its normal value."

The allied diplomat asked Chancellor Wirth whether Germany wishes to enter the League of nations. The chancellor replied as follows:

"Germany is like a man with the water reaching his chin and with every indication that it will rise above his head. At such a moment the only answer can be: 'Let us see first if I am going to be alive.'

"But after all, perhaps it is better for Germany to die alone than to be condemned to death within the flame of the Versailles treaty."

It had been alleged by French political leaders that German industrialists and financiers had purposely caused the mark to depreciate in order to make it difficult for the government to pay indemnity.

Industry Slowed Up By Walkouts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Production in many industries has been slowed down because of the railroad and coal strikes, but these disturbances have not affected the "deeper undercurrent of returning prosperity," and there is a general feeling that early settlement will be reached and that business will continue to increase, the department of commerce declared today.

GRAIN MARKETS

Prices of wheat for future delivery again kept within a narrow range last week, the market generally showing a tendency to sag, due to a temporary letup in export demand, liberal receipts at most markets and a further reduction in carlot prices, particularly for the better grades, saye the Kansas City Star. Closing prices yesterday showed losses of about 1 cent for September delivery for the week and 2 to 3 cents for December. The market at one time was down 2½ to 3½ cents to new low levels for the season.

Continued dullness in speculative trade was attributed to the railroad shopmen's strike, which has had the effect of restricting operations by making both buyers and sellers cautious. The strike has been in progress now about five weeks and in this time there have been no important interruptions in the movement of grain, especially from country points to terminal markets, but there were numerous indications last week that unless it is settled soon the slowing up in transportation, which has been apparent in other lines of industry, will extend to grain. A small decrease in primary receipts of wheat occurred last week and another is probable this week if railroads continue to optrate with present handicaps.

Few definite opinions on the future course of the market have been expressed since it was seen htat the strike would probably be a matter of several weeks at least. In the past few weeks futures have kept within a narrow range, generally 5 to 7 cents, and trade has been small. It generally is thought that the market will not respond to the usual market conditions again until the strike is settled.

Small Decrease in Reeceipts.

Receipts of wheat at the principal markets last week were 9,229 cars, slightly less than in the preceeding week and 14 per cent less than a year ago. Compared with two years ago, there was an increase of 57 per cent. All markets except St. Louis reported decreases. Kansas City received 3,002 cars, 441 less than in the week before and 516 less than a year ago. The movement to Chicago continued liberal, 3,314 cars last week, or 380 more than a year ago.

A further small decrease is looked for this week unless there is general improvement in transportation.

Comment on plans to encourage farmers to hold wheat and not market an unusually large proportion of it early in the season were in the foreground, but it is not thought that the movement will be affected to any extent. A great deal is said nearly every season along this line. It is true that the large initial movement generally causes a downward readjustment in prices, but most farmers appear to be in need of money at this season of the year and sell freely without much regard to price.

Export Demand Less Active.

Export purchases in all positions last week were estimated at 8 million bushels, about half as much as in the preceding week, due to the fact that the principal buyers were out of the market several days. A fair proportion of the wheat was for delivery at the Gulf ports. Prices at loading points were barely steady in comparison with interior markets. The unsettled foreign exchange markets, due to conditions which caused the decline of German marks to new low levels accounted in part for the less active demand. The Liverpool market declined slightly for the week.

Exports of wheat and flour from the United States and Canada this week, as reported by Bradstreet's, were fairly liberal, 7,110,000 busheels, compared with 7,891,000 bushels the preceding week and 11,061,000 bushels a year ago.

Argentina exported 3,127,000 bushels of wheat last week, a little less than in the week before and about three times as much as a year ago.

Crop News Favorable.

Crop comment from the spring wheat states and from the Canadian provinces on the whole was favorable and was a factor in the sagging future markets. Harvest is well under way in the southern part of the area and will be general in another week or ten days. First reports indicate that a crop substanially larger than last year's and of good quality has been made.

The government's August report to be issued Tuesday is expected to be about in line with earlier private figures. The condition of spring wheat probably will be a little under the July estimate of 83.7, which is about ten points above the August average. An increase of about 25 million bushels in the estimate yield is expected. The July prediction was 248 million bushels, about 40 million bushels more than was harvested last year. A further small reduction in the winter wheat estimate has been shown by private reports. The July figure was 569 million bushels, compared with a final estimate last year of 587 million bushels.

Some Carlot Prices Down 8 Cents.

In the carlot market demand continued ftirly good from mills, elevators and shippers but supplies were more than adequate for their requirements and prices continued to seek lower levels. Difficulty of moving grain from this market, due to a local shortage of cars, was also to the disadvantage of sellers. After making a partial recovery the latter part of the week carlots of good hard and dark wheat yesterday went 3 to 8 conts lower, while other grades were steady to 2 cents lower. Red wheat was unchanged to 2 cents lower.

Elevator stocks made another substantial increase, 364,000 bushels, and now are 2,622,000 bushels, campared with 4,888,000 bushels a year ago.

The visible supply last Monday showed an increase of 4,188,000 bushels, the first important increase of the season. Another is expected tomorrow.

Decline in Corn Futures.

Corn futures closed yesterday with losses of 2¼ to 2 3-8 cents for the week in Kansas City and 1 to 1½ cents in Chicago.

Export demand was only fair, sales for the week amounting to about 2½ million bushels. Exports from the United States were 3,150,000 bushels, compared with 3,828,000 bushels the preceding week and 2,085,000 bushels a year ago. Argentina shipped 2,588,000 bushels.

Except for scattered reports of damage from drought in the northern states, crop comment was generally favorable. The government report Tuesday is expected to show a slightly lower condition in a smaller estimate of the yield than a month ago. Private figures last week placed the condition at 82 to 84, compared with an official report of 851 a month ago. The indicated yield was about 2,700 million bushels, about 160 million bushels less than the July forecast.

Receipts at the principal markets last week were 1,895 cars, 12 per cent less than in the preceding week and about the same as a year ago. Most of the decrease was at St. Louis.

Demand for small carlot offerings was only fair and prices showed more weakness than futures, all grades showing losses of 2 to 8 cents.

STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Failure of strike and railroad leaders to reach a basis for settlement of their difficulties, together with fresh complications abroad occasioned by the announcement of Great Britain's attitude on the payment of war debt, again had a tendency to check the revival of trade in all parts of the country, but did not alter the underlying belief that the general outlook is favorable.

Confidence in Stock Market.

In the stock market dealings continued on a small scale and were almost wholly of a professional character, but the general trend continued upward, with no new response to the strike situation other than occasional irregularity and nervousness. Nearly all railroad shares made substantial gains for the week, many reaching new high levels for the year. Louisville & Nashville rose 4 points for the week, Norfolk & Western gained 5 points and advances of 1 to 3 points were common in other stocks. Industrial issues showed irregularity, with numerous large gains and some small losses. Western Union was up 5 1-4 points and Corn Products 3 1-4 points. Oil shares generally were lower for the week, due to further cuts in crude oil and gasoline, though some issues were not affeced, Mexican Petroleum rising 3 3-4 and Cosden nearly 2 points. Further cuts in motor car prices weakened most stocks of this class. Steel issues as a rule moved narrowly.

The Week's Important Developments.

Since Monday there have been three important developments pertaining to Wall street. First came the coal and rail strike situation growing out of the meeting of 148 railroad presidents last Tuesday. Then came the unexpected note sent by England to her allies calling on them to pay their war debts because we will not forego our claims against her. Finally there is the big puzzle in the action of the Wall street banks at the close of the week in throwing out of their loan envelopes entirely low priced stocks.

Since the shopmen's strike was declared July 1, some of the roads, notably New York Central, have had trying experiences, but on the whole it appears they have done better than expected and probably have a slight advantage in their negotiations with the strikers. Wall street, as a rule, is behind the railway presidents in the stand they took in regard to the president's plan and the question of seniority rights.

Car loadings, with the exception of coal, showed further gains and additional statements of earnings by the leading railway systems indicated that the process of reducing operating gcosts and increasing net earnings had made further headway. The coal shortage caused further curtailment of operations in the steel and iron industries and there was an easing in demand for copper and other metals.

England's Attitude a Puzzle.

At the close of the week Wall street was still trying to puzzle out why the English government sent the war debt note to the allies. England and France are about to meet to talk over readjustment of the German reparations payments and England has already told France that if these payments were reduced England's debt against France would be reduced accordingly. It would seem that England's new move to make France and others pay her would put France in the frame of mind where she would demand full payment from Germany. France and other countries are not in a position to pay England unless payment is received by them from Germany, which is not likely.

Wall street is guessing, too, why the banks suddenly decided from the viewpoint of speculators to discriminate in their loan envelopes against low priced stocks. One conclusion is that the banks have decided that we have not gone enough along in the war readjustment to show which companies have been able to adopt sound financial and operating policies and hence, will be able to make money.

Call Money Rates Easier.

Money rates continued to be reasonably easy with the supply in excess of the demand at all times. Local and out of town banks again bought freely of commercial paper, although such offerings were comparatively light.

European exchanges were reactionary, mainly as a result of the extreme collapse of the German mark. The foreign situation is the cause of serious concern on the part of the international bankers. Canadian exchange was at the lowest discount in recent years, probably as a result of the increased exports to the United States.

Rise and Setback in Cotton.

A bulge of $8 to $9 a bale in the price of cotton, after the publication of the government's August report, which showed a much lower condition than expected, was followed by an extensive profit taking and all the gain was lost.—Kansas City Star.

Lincoln Boosters To Have Part In David City Event

A delegation of Lincoln boosters will go to David City, Aug. 22 to help Butler county people celebrate "Ford day." Charles Schwarz, chairman, of a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has called a meeting of his co-workers at the chamber Tuesday noon to complete plans for Lincoln's part in the event.

Denies He Ever Dealt In Cotton

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Denial that he had ever engaged in cotton speculation on the New York exchange, as charged recently in the senate by enator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, was today made by W. P. G. Harding, governor of the federal reserve board, in a letter to enator McLean, republican, of Connecticut.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.

Wall street continued to be optimistic over the coal and rail strikes today, opening prices on the New York stock exchange moving upward in relatively light dealings. Rails were again the favorites, Union Pacific leading with a gain of 1 point. St. Louis & San Francisco, Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred, New Haven, Southern Railway and St. Paul pfd. bettered their Saturday closing quotations. Oils were irregular, Associated Oil, Mexican Petroleum and Mexican Seaboard making moderate gains while Sinclair and General Asphalt receded slightly. New highs for the year were recorded by Brooklyn Edison Electric, Corn Products and Postum Cereal, all at fractional advances. Kresge was the outstanding specialty, gaining 1 point.

The market strengthened substantially on restricted trading during the morning, but towards noon profit taking set in, Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker canceling their early gains and other active issues selling slightly below their highest prices. A number of additional new high records for the year were made, however, in the first two hours, notably by Chicago & Northwestern, Pere Marquette, Great Northern preferred, California Packing, May Department Stores, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and International Harvester, which were up [illegible]. Exceptional strength was shown by chain store issues, Kresge and Woolworth advancing [illegible] points respectively. Rails continued in good demand at gains of 1 to 2 points, with similar advances being registered by some of the popular public utilities, including [illegible] North American, Detroit Edison and [illegible] opened at [illegible] per cent.

Speculative sentiment continued to lean toward the buying side although the bears staged a [illegible] tobacco, rubber and motor shares [illegible] to the lowest of the year. [illegible] New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, [illegible] points.

[illegible] early gains. The closing was strong.

Buying of high grade investment shares provided a stimulating influence to the comparatively light dealings of today's stock market. Numerous railroad shares reached new peak prices for the year, as did many of the industrials and specialties, especially the chain store [illegible]. Sales approximated [illegible] shares.

crash and it is presumed that possibly he was reading the orders when he passed the warning signal.

Flyer Behind Time

"The flyer was behind schedule and attempting to make up its time when it rounded a bend and came upon the local which was taking water. At the hour of the appalling disaster the track ahead at this point is usually clear and the fast train had no stops until it reached St. Louis.

The traveling train, before coming into view of the train ahead was at the trestle upon which the rear-end of the local train was standing. Four wooden coaches were ripped to bits and two others were thrown down a steep ravine, which lay along side the tracks.

Pitiful Cries For Help.

Pitiful cries for help filled the air as hundreds of rescue workers worked frantically to aid the suffering. A searchlight from a steamboat on the Missouri river, which was anchored a short distance from the scene, aided the rescuers in their work of removing bodies and extricating injured from the twisted mass of steel and iron, which in many places was piled several feet high.

Relief trains were dispatched from here to the scene, a distance of twenty-four miles. Practically all of the dead and injured were brought to this city.

Friends, relatives and curious ones jammed the railroad station and waited all Saturday night and Sunday for the arrival of the trains bearing the victims. Fear for their loved ones filled the breasts of those who knew a relative or friend had been a passenger on the wrecked train.

Seek Loved Ones.

At the morgue, where the dead were placed on a row of tables for identification, the morbidly curious formed a continuous line, which passed down the aisle in the center to view the lifeless forms. Eighteen persons a minute on an average passed through the door of the morgue on Sunday afternoon.

Thousands of others went to the scene of the wreck in every form of vehicle to watch the rescuers in their work. A trainload of union shopmen on strike at Poplar Bluffs, Mo., who volunteered their services, aided in the work of removing bodies and cleaning up the wreckage.

COURT PETITIONED TO CHANGE TITLES ON REFERED LAWS

or act with workers or persons seeking work and prohibits loitering near or congregating about any industrial establishment for the purpose of interfering with the employment of any person thereon or with the lawful business of such an establishment.

New Title Suggested.

The plaintiffs proposed title reads: "The purpose of this act is to prohibit the more unlawful labor troubles, peaceful picketing by the strikers or their sympathizers. In addition thereto, said act restates in substance the present law against violence, intimidation, and assault and battery."

The title given to House Roll 62 reads:

"This act permits the selection of delegates to county, congressional, district, state and national conventions by caucuses and conventions, instead of at primary elections; changes the date of primary election from July to August, except in presidential years; fixes the time of holding party conventions at five weeks before the primary election; removes the prohibition against recommendations by the conventions of aspirants for the party nominations at the subsequent primary election, and permits the selection of a national party committeeman at the party convention instead of at the primary election."

The title as proposed by the plaintiffs reads:

"(1) It takes from the voters and puts into the hands of the state party conventions the power and authority to select the delegates for president and vice-president. (2) It takes from the voters and puts into the hands of the state party conventions the power to select the national party committeemen. (3) It repeals that part of the direct primary law which gives women equal voice with men in party government and which provides that the voters shall select the precinct committeemen and the delegates to the county conventions. (4) It repeals that part of the direct primary law which prohibits party conventions from indorsing or condemning candidates for the party nominations. (5) It changes the date of the primary election from July to August, excepting presidential years, and fixes the time of holding the party conventions at five weeks before the primary elections."

The Fourth Measure.

The title as fixed on Senate File 133 by the attorney general reads:

"This act provides for the registration of all voters in the state; defines illegal voting and provides penalties for the same. Voters may register at any time before election with the county clerk, with the judges of elections, with precincts and deputy assessors or by mail on affidavit before any officer authorized to administer an oath or they may register with the judges of election on election day."

The title as proposed by the plaintiffs reads:

"This act provides for the registration of all voters in rural districts and in cities and towns having a population of under 7,500. Under the provisions of this act the county clerk is the county registrar and he may appoint as deputies the precinct and deputy assessors who may act as registrars when performing their duties as assessor. Voter must register thirty days or more preceeding an election. Voters when registering will be asked among other things their party affiliation and the county clerk will have authority to deny registration to all voters whose answers are in his opinion unsatisfactory and untrue. The county board is compelled to pay out of the county treasury the expense involved in carrying out this law, such as the printing of cards four by six inches in size, and additional clerical assistance."

STRIKERS APPEAR IN FEDERAL COURT

he would rather protect a Mexican than a d——n Russian."

Tom Baker testified that there had been no trouble before a number of Burlington guards called at a Mexican's house, adjoining the Baker home, to escort the Mexican to work. The Mexican told the guards, Baker said he had learned, that he did not want to go to work because the people around him did not like it.

"I had just finished breakfast," Baker testified, "when I heard a noise outside. I went out and saw a crowd of men in front of the Mexican's house. They were railroad guards. I went over there and asked them what was the matter and was told it was none of my business. Then I went back to my house, and leaned against the fence watching them. Soon an officer came up, who I mistook for another guard. Marshal McClung also came up, but I didn't know him then. They asked me for my name and I thought they were guards and so said that I didn't know whether I cared to give my name or not. They then grabbed me. I did not resist. After they put me in the car, I looked out and saw my wife lying in the ditch. I cried out 'My God, there's my wife!' but an officer raised his club over me and said to shut up."

"I don't know anything about any gas bomb," Baker testified. "I saw Marshal McClung get sick on the car while on the way to jail. He turned loose of the steering wheel and said 'I am getting blind.' The gas did not affect me."

Baker said that he was a striker and that his job was icing cars.

Anderson Testifies.

Captain Walter Anderson was the first government witness called on the stand. He described briefly his arrival at the scene, and what happened.

"I caught Mrs. Blum's wrist," he testified, and she had a long club in her hand. Mrs. Baker was not struck by any officer, but slipped into the ditch. I did not see an officer near at any time nor did she have a hold of her husband."

Officer Schneible testified that he was one of the first officers to arrive on the scene.

"I saw Baker leaning against the fence, and a crowd of men around," Schneible said. "I asked him what his name was. 'None of your business,' he said. I told him I was a police officer but he refused to give me his name and occupation. Then Marshal McClung walked up. Baker told him that he had no name, and McClung told him then that he would take him to jail until somebody claimed him."

Schneible also testified that Mrs. Blum's daughter came running behind her mother, and that she carried a half of a brick, which she dropped under her feet when Schneible asked asked her what she wanted.

Government Closes Case.

With Officer Schneible's testimony, the government closed its case and the defense called Earl F. Hanning, Burlington guard, for cross examination on the stand. He was asked if Marshal McClung left the engine of his car running while making the arrests but the witness did not remember.

Marshal McClung next was called and testified that the gas which made him and two others ill, he was positive, did not come from the engine exhaust of his car.

"It didn't smell like it," he said.

Cal Brody, another guard was the next witness.

Peter George corroborated in substance all the testimony of Baker. George testified that he saw Major Gross force Mrs. Baker into the ditch.

C. Klemm, Baker's father-in-law testified that no attempts had been made to intimidate the Mexicans from going to work.

Attorney J. M. Priest represented Baker and Mrs. Blum. Clifford L. Rein is Beltz's attorney. Attorneys Jimmie Chappell and B. A. Westover represent the six men from Bridgeport, the two from McCook and several others.

HARDING PROPOSES NEW SETTLEMENT

which the white house has addressed to railroad officials and strikers.

Makes No Comment

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Robert S. Binkerd, assistant to T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the association of railway executives said this afternoon that every consideration would be given President Harding's latest proposal for settlement of the shopmen's strike, but declined to indicate how he believed it would be received by the railroad heads.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Chairman Loree of the eastern conference of railroad presidents, called a meeting of the rail executives for 4 p. m. today when word of the new proposal of President Harding reached him. It was expected that the attitude of the roads to the new suggestion would be defined at the meeting although the president's message to Mr. Cuyler was not mentioned in Mr. Lodge's call for the meeting.

ANDREAS IS NEW BUREAU CHIEF

Acting Head Is Given Promotion and $50 Monthly Salary Increase.

Tobias Put In Charge of Bureau of Animal Industry.

W. C. Andreas, chief of the state bureau of markets in the department of agriculture, has had his salary boosted and is now on the state payroll at the stipend of $250 per month. Up to July, he was drawing $200 monthly. He has been "acting chief" heretofore, but now he is the real thing, and the difference is worth $50 a month to him.

Mr. Andras testified in 1921, before a legislative committee investigating the fitness of the six code secretaries for their respective positions, that he had never had any friction with Agriculture Secretary Stuhr, his official superior; that he did not resent it when Stuhr mixed into the affairs of the bureau because Stuhr knew more about them than he did himself, and he was glad to have the secretary tell him how to do things.

While advancing Andreas to higher pay, Secretary Stuhr has not seen fit to do the same for F. R. Woodring acting chief of the animal bureau during the past year. Instead, he has relegated Woodring to a desk in one corner of the office and put in another man, D. D. Tobias of Wayne, as chief. Tobias has hitherto been one of the bureau's field inspectors at $200 a month. As chief, he now receives $250. Woodring continues to draw 200 a month as before.

It is not known why Secretary Stuhr made this change. Woodring was former assistant to W. T. Spencer when the latter was chief of the bureau. Spencer never got along well with Stuhr and finally resigned. No complaint has been heard on the outside concerning Woodring's work as acting chief, but nevertheless he has been superseded. Secretary Stuhr has been absent from Lincoln nearly a week, and as his office withholds information regarding his whereabouts he could not be reached for an inquiry upon the subject.

A few other salaries were advanced July 1 in some of the code departments, but in general the pay scale remains the same as before. Finance Secretary Bross boosted a few of his assistants who have been doing extra work for some time past. The finance department formerly employed a budget director at $250 a month, but that place has been vacant since January 1 and the work has been distributed among others.

MINERVA'S MAIL

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

Forgets Them All

Dear Minerva: As I read Jack's letter last week I felt rather sorry for him. It is so silly for Jack's wife to make so much over nothing. I have been married fifteen years and my husband never has remembered a single anniversary but I never think of feeling hurt over it. In fact I am rather glad. When one forgets to watch the calender one loses track of time and does not age so fast. I do not doubt for one minute my husband's love for me, because he has shown in countless other ways his affection for me. I learned years ago not to pout over anything, especially over things that don't count. I know a man who never forgets his wife on anniversaries, never forgets to bring home an expensive gift, but he often forgets in between times that he has a wife at all. So if Jack has not committed any worse offense, let's forgive him, wifey.

If someone will tell me how to preserve everlasting flowers after they are picked I will tell the way to keep cucumber cickles brittle. I use ice-water and soak them for two hours.—AUNTY FLO.

Make Best of It

Dear Minerva: I read a letter in your Mail which I thought I would answer as it seems to be the same problem that has troubled me for some time. My husband wanted to move to another state where he thought we could do so much better. Then it seemed so many knew so much to say about it and relatives did not like to have us move. We live on a rented farm and have a nice new house to live in but it is my husband's ambition, that we should some day have a home of our own, which he thought we could better secure by leaving.

It is now decided that we move and I am going to try to make the best of it. I realize that it is not so very easy to give up our relatives and other comforts but I would never stay behind when my husband was going to move. We can always find friends where ever we go. Trusting in God's blessing I think we will find success.—SATISFIED.

Of Tender Age

Dear Minerva: I am a girl sixteen and have been keeping steady company with a man twenty-three. Last week he told me he thought it was foolish to keep steady dates and said he would come and take me out some time but not the way he used to. We were out nearly every night. He wants me to go out with other boys and he with other girls. He told me he still loves me. I think of him every moment and try what I will I can't get him out of my mind. Please give me some advice as what to do.—LONESOME DOT.

A. I wouldn't say that the young man loves you but I dare say he likes you very much. And that is all you need. A girl sixteen has nothing to gain and so much to lose by playing at love, which is a game for those who have reached an age where discretion is supposed to abide. The young man has really acted very wisely. I admire him. Instead of just dropping you and thereby wounding your feelings, he has been honest with you and told you sensibly his opinion that "too much is too much." And so it is. Youngsters your age have no business having "steadies." They are too emotional and susceptible, inexperienced and ignorant. Respect the young man for his common sense and honesty, consider him a very good fried and play around in a younger manner, as suits the very tender age you possess.

What Shall He Do?

Dear Minerva: I have a book on etiquette, but notice many people varying from its forms, so will be pleased if you will answer these questions for me, namely; on which side of a man should a lady be while eating at a restaurant, or walking in a crowd. Should the lady remain seated until eats or refreshments are paid for. When entering an ice cream parlor with four chairs at a table which one should I take?

What is the latest form for a man's wedding ring and how is it trasferred at the ring ceremony?

If the bride's parents give her a wedding, is it formal for his people to entertain them.—CURLEYHEAD.

A. It doesn't matter on which side the man sits when dining in a restaurant, or elsewhere, with a lady. When walking with a lady, custom decrees that he should be on the outer or street edge of the walk, this dating back to the time when ferocious animals, were supposed to be at large whereupon milady needed the protection of a stalwart escort. The custom persists though the dangers do not. When entering an ice cream parlor and confronted by the appallingly empty four chairs at the table, which you so tellingly describe, just don't think of yourself in the least. Graciously draw out the chair for the lady with you, using discretion as to the distance from the table to which you draw it, and having seen her comfortably seated, choose the chair on either side of her which you desire.

When the double ring ceremony is used the bridgroom carries the two rings and gives them to the minister at the proper moment, he "with this ring" wedding the girl, and she "with this ring" being wedded to him. It is quite proper for the bridegroom's parents to entertain the wedding arty.

Twenty Men at Work.

BRAZIL, Ind., Aug. 5.—Twenty men started mining coal today in two strip mines near here in a district under martial law.

Three hundred national guardsmen reinforced the two battalions on duty since Governor McCray launched his effort to obtain fuel for emergency requirements in the face of the nation-wide mine strike.

More than a thousand soldiers rushed from summer training camp at Knox, Ky., patrolled a front extending forty miles through four counties to prevent possible destruction of mining property.

Striking miners held mass meetings of indignation outside of the martial zone tonight but they showed no signs of open revolt.

Resolutions protesting against the presence of troops in this peaceful community were sent to Governor McCray.

The strike breakers employed by the distric operaors at $7.50 a day stayed within an enclosure formed by troops around Rowland Power mines Numbers 3 and 9. They spent most of the day overhauling steam shovels and putting the machinery in condition.

Crack Liner of Pacific Damaged and Leaks Badly

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 7.—The passenger steamer H. F. Alexander, crack vessel of the Admiral line and one of the fastest in Pacific waters, was proceeding, at latest reports, early today, toward Seattle, leaking in her forward port No. 1, after striking Cake rock, near Cape Flattery at the rance to Puget Sound, last night. The coast guard cutter Snohomish was standing by.

Other vessels were reported approaching the damaged liner and thus amply conveyed, her passengers and crew apparently are in no danger. She expects to dock here sometime before noon.

Indications were that she had struck in a dense fog. How badly she is damaged cannot be determined until she makes port.

The H. F. Alexander, formerly was called the Great Northern and during the war was the flagship of the Atlantic fleet. The Admiral line bought her from the government March 4, 1922 for $1,250,000. She is vessel of 8,000 tons net and can make twenty-two knots an hour. She left San Francisco Saturday morning and was due in Seattle this morning.

ROUT REBELS ALL ALONG THE LINE

Free Staters Advancing on Revolters From Two Different Directions.

DUBLIN, Aug 7.—The national army troops are successfully pushing their campaign in southwestern Ireland both from Limerick sector and from the region of Tralee where they landed last week in a turning movement, according to reports from the fighting front.

The flanking parties from the coast are pushing inland and the fall of Listowell Saturday was a result. The irregulars retreated thence in a southeasterly direction to Abbeyfeale County Limerick. Before leaving Listowell they burned the barracks, the workhouse and the courthouse. In the Limerick area the fall of Kilmallock, Adare and several other places held by the irregulars, seems to have put them to rout in both east and west Limerick. Adare was taken after a few shells had hit the headquarters of the irregulars in a local hotel. The free state troops had one killed and three wounded.

After further fighting on Sunday the nationals still advancing, took Rathkeale, Broadford, Askeaton and Ballingarry.
